Cosmic Warfare (1)

The Eternal Flame of the Ancient Wisdom

Existing so much in physicality, as humanity does, we've been tricked into believing the physical is all there really is . . . despite our belief in an all-powerful external God. The physical is all we see, and we see only with our physical sense of sight. But physicality is just a curtain of illusion, pulled over our eyes deliberately to ensure it is all we do see. If we pushed that curtain aside, we would see a profound and deeply-shocking truth, because there is far more going on 'behind the scenes' than we could ever imagine . . .

The Curtain of the Illusional Reality

Existence in this illusional reality has caused, and continues to cause, humanity to be physical, and to be in physicality as if the physical is all there is. In such an existence, anything occurring in reality, either collectively or individually, is taken on face value, and life on earth happened purely by chance, or courtesy of a miraculous chance combination of chemical elements. Really? This incredible, highly complex, beautiful symphony of interweaving life forms occurred by chance?

In this dimensional reality, the curtain of illusional physicality is the focus. It's not meant to be the focus, but focus it is. Physical reality is a tool, nothing more. It is the means by which we have chosen to Work* – to learn, to experience, to heal, to rebalance our karmic debt, and discharge our karmic obligation. With help, though, humanity has been manipulated into focussing on the curtain in such a way that all thought, energy and effort goes into trying to orchestrate what is wanted from it and in it.

But in focussing on the curtain of illusional physicality the way we do, we don't see anything else. We see only the curtain and we think it's real. So we erroneously believe there is nothing more. And why would we think there is anything more when we don't even know the curtain is a curtain – one that, like any curtain, may be swept aside?

And so, we have no notion of the truth. The curtain of illusion serves a Purpose* that is deeply and profoundly metaphysical. It allows us to come here and experience things we cannot experience any other way. What things? Separation*, for one. That is, the Separation of consciousness, within, and the consequences of it externally. Free will, for another. And then, what may be done, for good or for ill, with the gift of Free Will.

Alone in the Universe

Existence, any existence, can always be perceived in layers and, therefore, responded to accordingly. When we exist only in the most shallow layer, as we do when all we see is the curtain of illusion, there is so much we miss. So much we don't know. So much we don't see. And, so much we don't experience. Worse, courtesy of having no notion of what goes on beyond and behind the curtain, we can so easily be manipulated. And so we are, by those who do know about the curtain and who, therefore, know how to use it to their extreme advantage. Much can be done to us and around us, right under our noses, right before our very eyes, and we won't have even the faintest knowledge of it.

Never more is this manipulation so cleverly successful than in the fuelling and fostering of the misguided belief that we are alone in the Universe*.

Because we perceive ourselves as physical beings only, we perceive our whole environment that way, and so, we also perceive the Universe as physical only. Put simply, we don't see the Universe the way it is, we see the Universe the way we are. So it's natural, I suppose, that in our ignorance we think we are alone in the Universe. The trouble is, this belief could not be further from the Truth. We're being manipulated into believing this falsity because in being cut off from the Truth, we ourselves are cut off from the whole, isolated. In other words, this belief creates our reality.

We are not alone in the Universe. We cannot be alone in the Universe because we are an inherent part of it, which means we are intrinsically connected to it and can never be otherwise. Although this is an inescapable Truth, we can experience the illusion of Separation, and so we are, not because we are Separate but because we think we are. Misguided mindset and false belief informs our perception.

Polarisations of Light and Dark

The Universe is, ultimately, a polarisation of Light* and an absence of that Light, or Darkness*. With most polarisations, like hot and cold or black and white, there are shades in between, or gradations. Between hot and cold, for example, there are variations of warm, and between black and white, there are infinite shades of grey. With the polarisation of Light and its polar opposite, Darkness, there are no gradations. There is only the one or the other. They are mutually exclusive. And, like oil in water, they don't mix.

The reason for this is obvious, I think. It is a fundamental principle of Light and Dark that Light banishes Darkness. You only have to flick a light on in a dark room to see this principle at work. If you grasp this then you understand that to gain a foothold and then ascendancy, the Darkness must obviate the Light, neutralise it, or, if possible, snuff it out. Anywhere the Darkness wants to be, the Light must be dealt with. This is essential.

Well, the Darkness wants control of human consciousness and human reality. And it believes it has control. In fact, those of the Darkness have Worked hard to obliterate the Light from this reality and then to keep it locked out.

But Light is not obliterated so easily. It has a wonderful tendency, in fact, to easily flare into life again. And it just so happens that human consciousness responds to it the same way a dry sponge soaks up water – a fact those of the Darkness are well aware of.

The Cosmic Game of Chess – Spiritual Warfare

So, for aeons of time, indeed, across human history in its entirety, the Light and the Darkness have been battling for control of the human experience, as if they are, and have been, playing an age-old cosmic game of chess, with pieces of ebony – souls of Darkness – pitted against pieces of ivory – souls of Light. Moves, countermoves and countermeasures, attack and defence, agenda and strategy.

Only, neither side plays for pleasure, nor for entertainment. On the contrary, we are playing for the highest of stakes: human consciousness itself. Spiritual warfare, played out on the board of the human psyche.

This is the Truth of what is really going on behind the curtain of illusional physicality, and it is time for humanity to know. Human reality has been shaped by both sides, the Light and the Darkness, yes, but the real Truth is that human existence as it is now is the result of the battle between both sides. It is, in fact, a powerful, metaphysical tug of war. And humanity is caught in between.

Higher-Dimensional Beings of Light and Dark

Down through the entirety of human history, not just the current iteration of it, souls of Light have come, taking on human incarnations to heal, to effect change, to influence. Some come to help or heal individuals, some to help groups, some to help whole cultures, and some come for the sake of the whole, the collective. Some come to change a specific thought and belief, like the true nature of death and humanity's fear of it, as did George Lonagan and Marie Lelay in the movie Hereafter<sup>1</sup> (a fictional example).

But so, too, have souls of Darkness come here to further the Dark agenda.

We're all involved by virtue of simply being here. This is the battle ground, after all. But the battle itself is not being waged physically. Although it has definite expression on the physical plane, the battle is metaphysical, being waged in higher dimensions, by higher-dimensional beings.

On one side, the Guardians – powerful, higher-dimensional beings of Light – have Worked tirelessly for the aeons of human existence to raise consciousness, to guide and direct it back to the Light where it belongs. On the other side, the Priests of Si'il – higher-dimensional beings of Darkness – have Worked equally as hard to form human culture into one of abject ignorance, like terraforming a new planet so that it can support and sustain their way of being.

Do you see now how important it is for those of the Darkness to keep humanity trapped in physicality? You know the old adage? What we don't know, we cannot grieve over. If we don't know we're under attack, we cannot mount a defence or fight back. The Guardians and the Si'il exist. They are real, and they are fighting over us, the Si'il to take from us and to use us for their own malevolent ends, the Guardians to care for us.

Guardians of Light

The Guardians are the true face, or nature, of God, at least as far as humanity is concerned. They are the immune system of the Universe, and they uphold the only real natural law in the Universe: the Law of Love. They are Love. They are Light, and, therefore, they are all those beautiful, powerful characteristics of Light I have spoken of many times. They are the antidote to darkness, fear, ignorance and Separation, and, as such, the Dark Priests greatly fear them.

It was the Guardians who created the human experience, and when they did so, they weaved into it an aspect of existence that is not a natural, normal or fundamental condition of higher-dimensional existence: Free Will. Choice.

Not the choices we make in our day to day existence, like what we'll wear to work or have for dinner. These are choices of physicality, or shallow thought, made in the infrastructural context of our realities. Choices made when exercising Free Will are those that either honour or dishonour the deepest, metaphysical Thoughts that govern our lives – the script of our higher consciousness.

Why did the Guardians weave Free Will into this human existence? To create an existence that provided a unique opportunity for souls to learn, firsthand, through direct experience, about concepts like Free Will, what it's like to create out of fear, and even what Separation is and what it means . . . kind of like fast-tracking the evolutionary journey of souls, those who come here.

But the human experience was never meant to be the way it is now. The Guardians were always meant to watch over and guide it, not from outside it but from within. They walked in this existence themselves, and were an integral and vital part of it, its beating heart, its inherent connection. They formed the core of the Guardian Priesthood and they were humanity's guidance.

The Wisdom of the Guardians

Moreover, the Wisdom of the Guardians, the original religion – a beautiful, ancient Wisdom – was always meant to underpin and govern human existence, informing the fabric of human culture, society, and reality. The Ancient Wisdom was the guardian of choice and, with it, action, behaviour, intent, motive, focus and perspective. Thus did the governance of it protect all souls who incarnated here.

The Destruction of the Guardian Priesthood and the Tearing of the Fabric of Human Reality

But the Guardian Priesthood, those of the Guardians who were here materially, were cut down, excised from this reality by the Dark Priests, and it set a pattern, a precedent, that has continued for the aeons of human existence. The control the Dark Priests wanted was not possible while the Guardian Priesthood endured as humanity's guidance and connection, so they destroyed it.

Worse, though, is the fact that the Dark Priests used Free Will to get a foothold on and in this reality, using it against humans themselves, and they manipulated humans into doing their dirty Work for them. So it was humans themselves who rose up against the Guardian Priesthood and destroyed it.

Given the constructs of this reality and the way humans create, the act of destroying the priesthood that was our beating heart, our very connection with the higher dimensions and higher-dimensional Truth, was so powerfully symbolic that it tore at the very fabric of human reality, irrevocably altering it, Separating humans from our own divine source and plunging us into the abyss of darkness and Separation we exist in even to this very day. Hell, the devils' playground, was the terrible consequence of the destruction of the Guardian Priesthood.

But the Guardians never abandoned this human reality. On the contrary, they have continued to guide and watch over it. And they have continued to come here themselves, incarnating down through the ages.

The Brightest of Beacons

When they come in their True Form*, they are like shining lights in the darkness of this human reality, the brightest of beacons, and they stand out. By True Form, I mean they take on a human incarnation but one whereby they remember, fully, who they are metaphysically, and they live their metaphysical Truth openly, not hiding within or behind an acceptable, ordinary lower-dimensional identity.

Accordingly, you can look back over human history and easily see them: Socrates, Gautama Buddha, Mani, Zoroaster, and, of course, Yeheshua, who the world knows, tragically, as the much-distorted, iconified 'Jesus'. The Christian Bible tells humans 'Jesus' was the Logos, the Word, made manifest in flesh. But a better interpretation of what the Guardians are when they come in their True Form is Wisdom. The are the Ancient Wisdom, and, therefore, when they come in their True Form, they live it, they breathe it, they speak it, they personify it, they re-seed it, and, as such, they send it flowing through the human experience once again.

But the Guardians haven't and don't always come in their True Form. Often times, they come simply to tend the rivers of their Wisdom, taking on ordinary incarnations to do so thereby flying under the radar, so to speak. And by 'ordinary incarnation', I mean they become, at least partially, a product of this ignorant human reality, descending, at least partially, into the thick fog of forgetfulness, forgetting who they are to take on the character-identity of the incarnation.

Or, they and other souls of powerful Light come as great Teachers, Thinkers and Mystics to promulgate the Ancient Wisdom: Pythagoras, Plato, Plotinus, Shankara, and, in the modern era, William Blake, just to name a handful, because there have been many.

Unsnagging Consciousness

Where and when human consciousness becomes trapped or snagged, there will come the Guardians to get it moving again. Where and when human consciousness becomes derailed, there will come the Guardians to put it back on track, and where and when human consciousness becomes utterly disconnected, there will come the Guardians to reconnect it to Truth.

Where and when human consciousness becomes lost in darkness, there will come the Guardians, radiating their Light, showing humans the way, and where and when human consciousness becomes bogged down in the quagmire of materiality, labouring under the burden of chronic ignorance so that humanity becomes parched with thirst, there will come the Guardians to rehydrate and nourish consciousness with the Ancient Wisdom.

Priests of Darkness

But if the Guardians are the immune system of the Universe, then the Dark Priests are the disease.

As the script in Guy Ritchie's fabulous movie states so eloquently, balance is a law that cannot be transgressed<sup>2</sup>. If there is Light, then it follows there will be an absolute absence of that Light: Darkness. Thus are the Guardians and the Dark Priests extreme polar opposites, each the absolute antithesis of the other, the Universe holding itself in balance. Or, as The Matrix<sup>3</sup> puts it, the result of the equation trying to balance itself.

I call the Dark Priests the Priests of Si'il because it's an abbreviated way of referring to them . . . as is George Lucas's Sith. Their true name holds real power, and you don't want to mess with that power if you don't know what it is or how to handle it. The last thing we want is for people to go around uttering their name of power. That would be a disaster.

They are beings with souls of utter Darkness and malevolence, the 'devil consciousness' of modern institutionalised religions. But the irony is they have created those religions for purposes of mind control, or consciousness control, such that those religions are an intrinsic and powerful part of their Dark manipulations. That effectively renders the god of those religions false, and so he is, which is why he exhibits all the characteristics of a male ego. That's exactly what he is.

The Demiurge

Plato and the Gnostic Christians referred to him as the Demiurge – a kind of master craftsman who created and controls materiality, or the material realm. It's an apt descriptor because that's exactly what the Si'il do – constantly shape this reality and the human experience at the many different levels of it – individual, group, cultural, global – and from many different directions – DNA, energetically, conscious thought, unconscious thought, physically.

When the Priests of Si'il incarnate in their True Form, the body they are in becomes corrupt, diseased, often carrying the stench of death and decay. Needless to say, they don't often incarnate in their True Form.

But just as the Guardians can incarnate here not in their True Form, so, too, can the Si'il and other beings of Darkness incarnate not in their True Form. When they take on a so-called ordinary incarnation, forgetting who they are, at least partially, they usually have hard and/or black, black eyes – symbolic of the lack of Light in their soul – and they are always psychopathic and narcissistic, and brutally ruthless. They are devoid of emotion because they are a void of Darkness within.

And, of course, they incarnate here to further their Dark agenda so they are always obsessively focussed on the Purpose* of the incarnation to the exclusion of all else, not giving a damn who they hurt and harm, and ruthlessly removing all and any obstacles as with the sweep of a hand.

Making a Deal with the Devil

The terrible truth of the reality the Si'il have caused to be here now, however, is that they don't have to come here themselves. There are many incarnate humans who do their dirty Work for them. The Si'il have to significantly lower their energetic vibration to be here – not an easy thing for a higher-dimensional being – so they often Work through incarnated people, like Adolf Hitler, for example, one of the reasons he was so physically and psychologically ill during his life.

There are rituals of binding, rituals of the blackest magic, that allow for the surrender of body and mind, allowing entities of Darkness control over both. To refer to it as 'possession' is to fail to fully comprehend the dynamics involved, although the concept will allow you to begin to understand. It is, in truth, a merger of consciousnesses, or allowing your own consciousness to be infused with that of these Dark entities. Hitler was their puppet, yes, but he knew what he was doing and he wanted to be doing it because he wanted what they had offered him: dominion over an empire. Power.

Working with beings of Darkness consciously can tend to send a human mind insane, as Hitler demonstrated. It can, quite literally, bring on mental and physical illness. But you'd be amazed at how many people are willing to sell their souls and their bodies and their sanity for just a little bit of power and wealth and status. It's a mindset I confess I am wholly unable to comprehend. These people are prepared to make the most horrible deals with the devil, and so they do, and so they have, down through the ages.

The consequence for their soul is horrific, lacerating it and binding it up in karmic debt and obligation, which they have to clear and which traps them here, but they either don't know or don't care. I suspect many don't care because they want to come back here. They want to exist here. And they also want to be karmically bonded to other people to pull those people back here, too. The more the merrier, as the saying goes.

Tragically, though, there are things here now in this reality, also part of the Dark manipulations, that facilitate a similar control, or a similar surrender, giving entities of Darkness a foothold in this reality and, often, in a person's psyche without that person necessarily knowing about it. Alcohol has the potential to do this, but, even more powerfully and successfully, so, too, do drugs.

Drugs like methamphetamines, cocaine, hallucinogens, and opiates open doors in people's minds that should remain firmly shut. And with these open doors, unimaginably-horrible things come in and take control. And once in, they usually stay.

And then, there are the games. Why on earth do people participate? I won't elaborate on them here because I have elsewhere<sup>4</sup>. Just because people don't believe in the supernatural, does not mean these entities of Darkness don't exist. They do exist, and they make very good use of the lack of belief and the chronic ignorance that is rife in this reality.

The Ancient Wisdom

This age-old battle between the Light and the Darkness is concentrated on something specific. Or, rather, in the analogy of the tug of war, the rope is symbolically important. The Light and the Darkness both express, or exhibit, their own characteristics, which is how you may know which is which (by their fruit shall ye know them).

The characteristics of Darkness, like the Darkness itself, are an absence of its polar (Light) opposite. Ignorance, for example, is an absence of Knowledge, Truth and Wisdom. Thus does the Darkness need ignorance to survive and thrive, and to manipulate and control, so ignorance is of the Darkness. And this is so in all and every context.

And this is the rope of our analogy. When the Light gains the ascendancy, the Ancient Wisdom governs human existence, as it was always meant to. But when the Darkness gains the ascendancy, chronic, abject ignorance reigns supreme. This is why the Garden of Eden story in the Christian Bible has been so corrupted, distorted, twisted.

As we say so succinctly in Lady of the Lake<sup>5</sup>: Turn Knowledge into sin, and what remains? Ignorance. How damaging is it when blind belief replaces inner knowing? The consequences can be measured only in degrees of chaos.

Agendas of Light and Dark: Moves and Countermoves

When the Guardians come, whether in their True Form or not, to re-seed their Wisdom, the Dark Priests act quickly to hijack the Work and the Wisdom of the Guardians, twisting and distorting it beyond all recognition, as they have done with Yeheshua [Jesus] and his message, or, worse, moving to snuff it out as if it were a flame on a candle.

And they have weapons in their arsenal those of us of the Light do not have: genocide, murder and assassination, a complete disregard for the sanctity of life, ruthless brutality in their treatment of people, and a never-ending resource of people willing to strike their terrible bargains.

Furthermore, the Dark Priests know how to manipulate human consciousness directly through the generation of the Darkest energy, using black magic rituals, sacrificing people, especially children, at key locations, usually where the ley lines of the earth intersect, which also happens to be where many Catholic churches are built, sending the Dark energy flowing through the ley lines thence to influence consciousness and, therefore, human reality.

The ley lines are Gaia's veins of energy, so they carry energy, whether Dark or Light, like superconductors. Using this knowledge, the Dark Priests can, for example, stir up emotional violence and conflict in a particular area with their black magic rituals alone, let alone their Dark manipulations of people.

Human sacrifice? I know it seems impossible, and I have no doubt the thought of it will meet with resistance. The evidence of it is there. All we have to do is open our eyes to see the truth of it, and many people are doing so. This is exactly what the curtain of illusion is for, to hide these kinds of truths.

A million people disappear every year in the US alone, only a small portion of whom disappear deliberately, for reasons of their own. In the vortex of pure evil that was operating in Nazi Germany, an estimated 11 million people were murdered, and the Nazis did so without a qualm. Look at what the Catholic Church did to impose its authority in the Middle Ages. Again, millions were murdered in the name of that Church's god.

So is it really such a preposterous suggestion, that those who serve the Darkness ritually sacrifice humans behind closed doors? It's a known fact that paedophile rings target homeless children because there are no families to report them missing, so why wouldn't those who engage in satanic and black magic rituals do the same? In truth, blood sacrifice, whether animal or human, forms the very core of those rituals.

The Ancient Tug of War: Wisdom Verses Ignorance

When you know the Truth, you can cast your gaze back over human history, looking back across time with opened eyes, and you see that where the Wisdom has gained a foothold, there has come the brutal response to snuff it out, usually in the form of a campaign of eradication (see Monograph Eight for more detail of this).

So, for example, the enlightened culture that thrived in Alexandria early in the first millennia CE, and, in particular, its fabulous library, temples and priesthood, were all specifically and violently targeted by the Dark agenda. Again, early in the second millennia CE, the enlightened Cathar culture of the Languedoc in southern France was specifically and violently targeted in the Albigensian Crusade. Likewise, the enlightened Druidic cultures in Gaul and Britannia were specifically and violently targeted by the Romans, particularly Julius Caesar.

The cultural fabric of the pre-dynastic Ancient Egyptians was formed of the Ancient Wisdom. Two of the Guardians seeded it directly, and it is upon them that the myths of Isis and Osiris are based. Tragically, as the Egyptians progressed through the Old, Middle and New Kingdoms, the Ancient Wisdom grew weaker in its governance of their culture until it became merely an echo, still powerful, but an echo nonetheless.

The Dark Priests Worked throughout the entirety of Egypt's spectacular history to nullify the power of the Wisdom, although, courtesy of the sheer power and potency of it in the form of the Egyptian religion-philosophy, this was not easily achieved. Their Work was hard.

Despotic, power-hungry pharaohs, like those of the fourth dynasty, schisms between priesthoods, like those of On (Heliopolis) in the north and those of Thebes in the south, corrupt priesthoods, conflicts between pharaohs and priesthoods, as with Amenhotep III and the Amun-Ra priesthood at Thebes, invasions, complete breaks with the priesthood, as occurred with Akhenaten, and the loss of knowledge and ritual, as happened when Ahmose, founder of the 18th dynasty, was assassinated, all contributed to the weakening of the Ancient Wisdom in that land. But it was, of course, the Romans who finished the job.

The Ancient Wisdom has not, however, always been re-seeded as a religion, like that of the Cathars. Sometimes, it was sourced in the form of myth and was, then, sent flowing through the human experience like a small but nourishing stream in a desolate wasteland.

The Arthurian legends were one such seeding, one of the reasons why human consciousness still resonates with them, even to this day.

Over the centuries, the Guardians have tended it, too, this stream, keeping it alive and flowing. The Arthurian legends are Druidic in origin, but the Darkness has failed to come up with a successful countermeasure for this particular seeding. Is it any wonder, then, they had to obliterate the Druidic cultures and, more importantly, Druidic lore itself?

Philosophy: an Eternal Flame of Light

A most powerful and enduring seeding of the Wisdom occurred with Philosophy. The Greek philosophers did not invent Philosophy, and nor is Philosophy the sole domain of the ancient Greek philosopher 'club', as exclusive as that was. Our knowledge of and access to the teachings of the ancient Hindu and Chinese philosophers belie the truth of that.

Philosophy cannot be invented. Wherever there are people to contemplate the deeper questions, there you will find philosophers. In that sense, anyone can be a philosopher. Philosophy is, therefore, intrinsic to human thought, and, as such, has existed for as long as humans themselves have existed.

What Socrates and his disciples did in that time and in that place in ancient Greece was to create an identifiable and well-defined river of Wisdom that still, to this day, flows through the human experience – a remarkable thing given the successful eradication of the Wisdom in its other forms: Druidic lore, Manichaeism, Gnostic Christianity, and the Ancient Egyptian religion-philosophy, just to name some.

The torch of philosophical thought has been carried, tended and passed on by some of the greatest minds in human history. And it was, really, Philosophy and philosophical thought, and its very great influence, Hermeticism, that dragged Europe out of the darkness into which it was plunged during the Dark Ages.

But while Philosophy cannot be controlled, it can be contained. And so it was during the Dark Ages. When you look back over the history of Philosophy, the constraints put on it at this time by the dangers of stepping beyond the boundary imposed by the dogma of the Catholic Church acted on Philosophy like a belt pulled too tight, cutting off blood supply.

The great minds at the time, brilliant men, were unable to go beyond the restrictive concepts of the Christian God, sin, eternal damnation, singular lives lived, and the Church's concept of creation<sup>8</sup>. In the modern era, it's no longer acceptable to burn someone at the stake for religious beliefs that run contrary to that of the Church, but not so in the Dark Ages.

But for all their systems of control, the flame of Philosophy never died out. Although it burned low during the Dark Ages, the writings and the contribution of the very great philosophical thinkers survived to refuel and re-fan the flames of philosophical thought. And they survive even to this day. Such is the power of philosophical thought.

The Right Arm of the Darkness: the Roman Catholic Church

There is one very great weapon I must reference because it was built by the Priests of Darkness for the sole Purpose of eradicating the Ancient Wisdom. So powerful has it been as a tool of eradication that the building of it has successfully seen the Darkness rise to the ascendancy in this human reality: the Roman Catholic Church.

In fact, the Si'il themselves incarnated constantly to build this weapon, to establish its foothold in European consciousness, to anchor it firmly in the cultural fabric of the Middle Ages, and to protect its systems of control when necessary.

Have a closer look at men like Mungo Kentigern, patron saint of Glasgow. He appeared in Scotland at a time when Christianity, or more specifically, Catholicism, was struggling to establish itself courtesy of the resistance that was underpinned by the remnants of Druidic lore and wisdom. When Mungo appeared on the scene, the Druids still survived in Scotland and so the people there found Christianity highly unpalatable, certainly Catholic Christianity.

He did whatever it took to force Catholicism down their throats, and force it down their throats he most definitely did. Opposition was dispensed with in the form of assassination and murder, and he embarked on a systematic campaign to desecrate the sacred sites of the Druids, burying the dead in their sacred groves and then building Catholic churches on the sites<sup>6</sup>, a campaign adopted across Europe, which is why so many Catholic churches are built on old pagan sites.

Mungo certainly fits the bill of a Si'il incarnation: psychopathic, ruthlessly narcissistic, brutally, aggressively and obsessively single-minded in his endeavours to further the Catholic agenda, obliterating the Wisdom of the Light, replacing it with mind-imprisoning dogma.

Oh, and he also hated women – another common theme of the Darkness. He was a true misogynist. In fact, to him, having sex with a woman was “to take pleasure in 'the rotten beauty of . . . rotting flesh'”<sup>6</sup>. What does that say about what the Si'il think of women and of incarnated humans? Mungo also violently hated another group that we see in Hitler's concentration camps: gay men. Now why is that, I wonder? Why do homosexuals pose such a threat to the Darkness?

Like the Guardians, who radiate Wisdom and Light, the Si'il are easy to spot, although, obviously, for opposite reasons. The ripple-effect of the Darkness in their souls and the brutality of their actions is far-reaching and highly detrimental.

Fashioning the Universal Church out of the Remnants of the Dying Roman Empire

The Roman Empire was a culture moulded and shaped by the Si'il, and, as such, it exhibited the very-specific rotten fruit, or characteristics, that were so overtly evident in Nazi Germany: ruthless disregard for the sanctity of life and human well-being, supreme arrogance, all-conquering, subjugating, controlling, suppressors of women, physical enslavement, intolerant of and suppressors of any wisdom that threatened state control.

This was a culture for which death, brutality, violence, torture and maiming was, quite literally, entertainment, a spectator sport – the very function of their famous Colosseum. That it was a Si'il culture is the reason why it had no tolerance for and persecuted the Gnostic Christians, the true adherents of the Wisdom, until the Si'il began to fashion their universal church out of the institutionalisation of the religion of the Christians, preserving and, eventually, transferring the power base established with the Roman Empire and establishing an effective means of preventing the Wisdom from regaining a foothold.

Like the Phoenix rising from the ashes of its own funeral pyre, so, too, was the Catholic Church fashioned out of the slowly-dying remnants of the Roman Empire. One of the titles born by the Roman emperors was Pontifex Maximus, or high priest, which morphed under Catholic auspices into the pappas, or pope. The Pontifex Maximus, Constantine, courted Christianity during his life and then converted to it in the dying moments of his life thereby becoming the first Christian emperor-pope and, for the first time, in the 4th century, making Christianity the state religion of Rome.

Constantine's conversion was a clever move. He was, in fact, key in the process of transferring the power base from the Roman Empire to the Catholic Church. With one fell swoop Rome extended its power, coupling spiritual authority, as the head of the emerging universal church, with the secular authority of the state. The scope of its power and authority, then, transcended the boundaries of country and the bounds of culture.

The transition of the power base from the secular hierarchy of the Roman Empire to the religious hierarchy of the Church was a process that took many centuries of moulding, clever moves, like a master potter shaping a vessel on his wheel. This is the truth of the origins of the Church, as opposed to the deceit upon which it has built itself – that of the disciple Peter being the rock or foundation of the Church, born of its obvious need to trace its origins back to Yeheshua [Jesus] and his disciples.

In fact, it was one of the debauched Roman emperors, the Pontifex Maximus at the time, Nero, who executed Peter and, most probably, Paul, along with a multitude of other Gnostic Christians, conveniently and, of course, erroneously blaming them for the great fire of Rome.

The hierarchical structure of the Catholic priesthood mirrors, perfectly, the hierarchical structure of the Roman military. And why not given the fact that the Roman military was so hugely successful. The Roman Catholic Church is the Roman Empire in different clothes. Thus does the Catholic Church, too, exhibit those same inherent elements that so characterise Si'il edifices.

As I say in Lady of the Lake, the foundations of this Church are bathed in blood, and it was built on the deaths of millions and millions of innocents, not just courtesy of its many crusades but also courtesy of its persecutions, its executions, its witch hunts, its overt instigation and covert funding of many wars and conflicts, both modern and historical. And, of course, its putrefying, rotten fruit is still in evidence today in the form of the now-exposed centuries of cover up of the systemic abuse of children at the hands of its paedophile priests, estimated to comprise 6% of its priesthood<sup>7</sup>.

I've said before, what irony it is that all those individuals who have sought their salvation by taking refuge in the laws and dictates of organised religion find themselves not on the side of Light but on the side of Darkness and death<sup>5</sup>.

Mutual Exclusivity

The Light and the Darkness are mutually exclusive, as I said at the beginning of this monograph, and with the demise of Free Will, overt warfare is coming – warfare that is no longer hidden behind the curtain of illusion – because those who serve the Light are no longer duty bound to honour the horrible, wayward choices humans make.

So which side are you on? Which side do you choose to be on? Or would you prefer just to keep your eyes closed so that you can carry on as you always have? With all that is occurring in our world today, have you not yet realised that humans are no longer allowed to carry on as they always have? Humanity no longer has any choice about that, and the first step for us is, and must be, to wake up and see what is really going on around us.
