

Monograph Fifteen: The Face of Tyranny

We are unable to see beyond the curtain of illusion, so we think the tyranny we fought in WWII was defeated. We think we prevailed. But surely you understand by now the fallacy of such thinking. The tyranny behind the two big wars of last century is as strong as ever it was, and it is preparing to strike at us again in the same way. Are we just to stand by, watch, and let this happen again? Or will we, this time, fight back and show this tyranny it has no power over us?

If we are to fight, we need to know and understand what that fight is and where to fight it, because if we fight this tyranny on its terms, we will lose. We must fight it on our terms, because if we do, it will lose. And it will lose us.

A Culture of Denial

In the aftermath of World War I (WWI), when Europe was in desperate need of healing and rebuilding, no one wanted to contemplate the thought of another war. In fact, the thought of another big war was utterly unthinkable. And so, they failed to consider it as a possibility. They couldn't, and as a consequence, they existed in denial.

And in the culture of denial that permeated Europe at this time, Hitler and his Nazis were able to rise to power and, quite literally, get away with mass murder, all whilst preparing for the war they knew they were going to start. They were given a massive head start because Europe was disarming at the same time Germany was arming itself.

As a lover of history, I have never been interested in war. No matter the period of time, the context, or the culture, I have never willingly studied it. And so, with WWI and WWII, I have wanted only to turn my face away. I have wanted not to know the details of those wars nor to see the images of horror captured and preserved in our historical archives. I find it deeply distressing watching and knowing what humans are able to do to each other, with and without the dark manipulations behind the scenes.

But I haven't been allowed to turn my face away from those wars, particularly WWII. I had to know. Now that you know where I exist, you will understand when I tell you I have brought into my reality documentary after documentary after documentary, as if the Universe was throwing them at me saying pay attention. It was relentless. And I have had to watch and absorb them all. Not just the images, either, but the information provided by experts who have studied those wars.

And no wonder, because in watching those documentaries, I was able to piece together a lot of information, related and seemingly-unrelated, like assembling pieces of a jigsaw puzzle, and I could see beyond the physicality of those wars. I could, and still can, see the face of the tyranny behind them and the events occurring between them.

We think we defeated that tyranny at the end of WWII. We think we put that tyranny in its place, and we think we prevailed. But we are wrong. The tyranny behind those wars is as strong as ever it was, stronger, in fact, because it used WWI and WWII to set in place even greater systems of control and manipulation than those established in the millennia preceding the wars.

Right now, I see the same tyranny at Work* again in our global political landscape.

The Tyranny of Darkness

The same tyranny behind the rise of the Nazis is preparing to strike at us again, in the same way it did under the Nazi regime. Why? Because the forces at play here now necessitate it, from their perspective. With the removal of Free Will* and the Cosmic Stroke of Midnight* (see Monograph Ten) they of the Darkness* will slowly but surely lose control of human consciousness, and they cannot allow that.

So they are preparing to throw caution and pretence to the fore winds. They are preparing to show us their true face once again.

They think this human dimension is their playground, and they will not willingly surrender their control of it, even though this human experience is not of their Creation*. They did not Create this human existence, they stole it, with an awful lot of assistance from us.

So, are we to walk into the devastation of another cataclysmic world war and the horror of genocide and physical enslavement with our eyes closed?

Such a culture of denial and apathy does not serve us, it serves only the Purpose* of a highly, transcendently-intelligent Darkness. Such a culture of denial feeds right into their dark agenda.

Control of the Human Experience

Surely, now, after reading the previous monographs, you can see for yourself that if you are to control this whole thing – the human experience – you have to control human consciousness so that you can control human reality, and vice versa. Then, with the one you control the other, and with the other, you control the one in a perpetuating cycle.

And, now that we know how intrinsic thought/Thought* and Process* are to consciousness, does it not make sense that to control human consciousness you need to control human thought, and collective and individual human Processes?

Specifically, you need to trap thought and stagnate Process, don't you?

Obviously, it is no easy thing to trap thought and stagnate Process on such a scale as it is being achieved – collectively and globally – but those who have done this have Worked to do so for many, many centuries. And they have had a lot of practice because, contrary to extremely erroneous popular opinion, there have been many iterations of the human experience. I, and others, have spoken about the Cycle of Recalibration* elsewhere<sup>1,2</sup> – an aeons-old cycle to which humanity is subject as a matter of necessity.

Creating a culture of chronic ignorance, which I wrote about in the first series, is essential, because in such a culture fear survives and thrives. And when humans exist in fear, fear itself becomes a very handy tool of manipulation and control. Nothing Separates* consciousness and fuels the ego like empowered fear.

Then, with a culture of ignorance and Perpetual Separation thus established, the mechanisms of manipulation and mind control in place now keep human consciousness anaesthetised, hypnotised, so that humans, individually and collectively, are focussed on and in a way that serves the agenda of Darkness.

In the higher dimensions, we refer to this state of existence as the Zombie* state. The Zombie has no heartbeat of his own, so he moves to the beat of an artificial one, just as humanity is doing now. To control the Zombie you have only to control the artificial heartbeat. And well does the Darkness know this. It controls the artificial heartbeat masterfully.

Puppets Whose Strings are Being Pulled by an Unseen Master

The other analogy I've used to describe this state of existence is the puppet who wrests control of his strings from his creator, his master<sup>4</sup>, with the intention of controlling his own story. The problem is, however, he's not in control. He only thinks he is.

With the controls in place, humans have become like puppets whose strings are being pulled in whichever direction those in control see fit, without us noticing we are being pulled and without us knowing we have become puppets. As I said in the last series, we have become slaves who cannot fight back or break free because we do not know we are slaves.

A Very Big Problem for the Darkness

The problem for the Darkness at this time in human existence is the removal of Free Will, and a very big problem it is, too, not for us, but for them. Human consciousness is shifting, and higher consciousness is beginning to stir, to awaken. The human soul, as beautiful and powerful as it is, is beginning to have expression in this human experience.

This is a Process* that, once begun, as it has now done so, is taking on a life of its own. It is, in fact, unstoppable. And well does the Darkness know this, too.

Extreme Measures of Control

So what do they do about it? Their manipulations and their systems of control will be rendered more and more ineffective. From their perspective, the time has come for more overt, far less subtle, systems of control.

Even more significantly, they think the time has come to generate more powerful circumstances in human reality that capture focus, generate extreme fears, dictate mindset and belief, and force humans to continue to Create* a reality that reinforces the curtain of illusion and the Separation of consciousness. Like war.

In other words, as energetic forces of Light* shift and stir human consciousness, the Darkness will fight back with energetic forces of its own. Cosmic warfare is ramping up, and, therefore, so, too, is the tug of war between the Light and the Darkness for control of human consciousness. And humans will be caught fair smack in the middle.

Creating 'Storms' in the Collective Human Reality

We know, now, what happens when we Create 'storms' in our realities that are supposed to be opportunities for us to see and disempower our fears and shadows. These storms are powerful enough to cause us to sink, like Peter, because they hold our deepest fears. So they hijack and consume our focus, dictate our perspective, and control our thoughts, mindsets, choices and actions.

But we also know, now, what occurs when we fail to understand the nature of these storms in our reality. We fail to see beyond the physicality of them to the deeper truth behind them, so we focus on the circumstances of them, miss the point, and empower our shadows instead of disempowering them.

Worse, however, is the fact that by doing this we lock our realities in place courtesy of the Observer Effect*. And since it is the storms themselves trapping our focus, we are effectively locking the storms in place instead of releasing and dissolving them.

So what occurs, then, when very massive 'storms' are deliberately generated in our collective reality that capture and trap the focus of millions of us?

The Storm of War

In Monograph Ten, I spoke about war and, in particular, two aspects of it that are used to great effect as part of the deeper, darker agendas:

- In war, humans are focussed on a very specific thing, or, rather, focussed in a very specific way, in a very specific direction, on a very specific enemy, and so things occur that humans simply do not see because they are looking the other way. Focus is entirely captured and dictated by the enemy and the war itself.
- War provides a context that facilitates normally-unacceptable actions and behaviours, concepts and ideas, government decrees and laws becoming justifiable and, therefore, acceptable. In war, things are implemented or introduced without accountability, without questioning or opposition from the populace, that would, under different conditions, be entirely unacceptable. And once implemented, they stay because they become part of the fabric of our existence and we forget they weren't always there. We no longer notice them, and so we don't think to question or oppose them.

Overt war, in terms of opposing sides fighting each other, is simply one facilitating context. That is, it is the context that facilitates the implementation of controls ostensibly to deal with the supposed threat, whatever form that takes in the context. The so-called 'War on Terror' was one facilitating context in our recent past, but surely it is obvious that we are currently at 'war' against a highly-contagious virus and a consequent global pandemic.

Lambs Going Willingly to Slaughter

Every country, state and territory has its own response to the threat of the virus, but I rather think my own experience is a supremely good example of what is truly going on in this pandemic.

Sweeping aside the context, if you look at the facts, in my home city of Melbourne we have had our fundamental freedoms stripped away from us and, what's worse in my opinion, is we have allowed it. Like lambs to the slaughter we have allowed Melbourne to become a ghost town, completely shut down in the most severe lock down.

While Europe reports over a hundred thousand new cases of coronavirus a day, we in Melbourne reported two new cases yesterday, and yet we are in full lock down – a lock down that is crippling Victoria's economy and isolating this state from the rest of the country here in Australia.

We have become a police state. Businesses on the brink of closure are opening up despite the 'rules' and are being fined $10,000. Road blocks are being set up to restrict travel, to question anyone daring to go outside the restrictions of 5km from their residence with no good or valid reason. Police are monitoring social media (proving to me they can monitor social media, so why don't they in other circumstances??), arresting anyone who dares speak out against the draconian measures in place to deal with the virus. We're allowed one hour of exercise per day, and one person per household is allowed one trip to the shops per day. We have become prisoners in our own homes.

How is this any different from communist China? I'll tell you how it's different. The Chinese people have more freedom than we do here in Melbourne at the moment.

Oh but, I hear you say. The draconian measures are in place to save lives. Right, so they are, ostensibly. But we had two new cases of the virus yesterday, and other states here have managed clusters of the virus involving much higher numbers supremely well in terms of community tracking, without the stringent restrictions we're suffering.

You might think I'm complaining, but I'm not. In truth, the severe lock down here in Melbourne has served me well, allowing me to become immersed in my Work and my writing, facilitating the solitude I treasure. Personally, I have loved it. What I am demonstrating is how easy it is to implement measures that strip us of our fundamental rights and freedoms, containing and restraining us in the process, and we allow it.

A Well-honed, Highly-successful Strategy

We are lulled into an apathetic compliance with these stringent restrictions because of the context and the supposed justification.

This is the well-honed, highly-successful strategy they, of the Darkness, have been implementing for centuries. Create the context, change the laws, implement emergency powers, spoon feed the masses misinformation and disinformation, drip feed the people constant and consistent propaganda at every level and from every direction to hypnotise them. Goebbel's legacy.

Am I accusing our Victorian premier of working in cooperation with an agenda of Darkness? Yes, absolutely I am, whether or not he's conscious of it.

When YouTube removes a professionally-prepared journalistic piece documenting two doctors speaking up about the manipulation of numbers of deaths from COVID-19, specifically the pressure on doctors to put the virus on death certificates, regardless of the true cause of death, you know there's far more going on than we're being told.

The 'sleight of hand' dynamic that underpins the current pandemic is undeniably in evidence. So what are they up to? What are we not seeing?

I'll tell you what they're up to. They are preparing for war, overt war. Pandemics happen to be very handy for that, actually. Our focus is fully captured. Our economies are crippled, and that, in itself, is capturing our attention. Our governments are fully caught up in the balancing act of dealing with the virus on the one hand and keeping our economies moving on the other.

And is it really just a coincidence that this virus originated in China?

The Russia-China Alliance

In truth, we are not heading for war, we are already at war. We just don't know it (although I think some people in certain industries, like the barley and cotton industries, here in Australia know it). We, in the west, are at war with two communist countries, Russia and China. They know we're at war, even if we don't. But the war is heating up, escalating.

Understand this. Against Russia and China, we are fighting the same tyranny our grandparents fought in WWI and WWII. The physical face of the tyranny might be different, the time period might be different, but the tyranny itself is exactly the same.

I'm certain Winston Churchill would agree with me if he was here to see for himself what is transpiring in our global political landscape. He would recognise the same truth he saw in Nazi Germany pre-war. China, especially, is economically and militarily preparing for invasion. It wants control of the Pacific, but it covets the natural resources in Australia and New Zealand, both of which are the jewel in the crown of China's planned empire.

But if China's sights are set on Australia and New Zealand, then so, too, does the Darkness have our countries in its sights. So why is that, I wonder? The Darkness cares not one whit about natural resources.

Remember, the Darkness is not bound by the constraints of time. So what are the Dark Priests seeing that is such a great threat? What do they need to crush, to snuff out? Is it possible they are responding to something that hasn't yet come to fruition – something that just might be rippling backwards through time . . . ?

And what is it they typically move against, especially through the auspices of campaigns of eradication?

Comparing Tyrannical Patterns of Behaviour

The patterns of Russia's and China's behaviours are identical to what has come before. So, for example, as with Caesar and Pompey – those other all-conquering despots – one looks to the west, the other looks to the east.

Russia and China are not planning to take control of the whole world. They are taking control of the world. They are carving it up between them. Like opponents strategically moving pieces on a chess board to set up checkmate, so, too, are these communist states manoeuvring and manipulating to set themselves up to strike.

If you look closely, all the same patterns we saw in Nazi Germany are there. The two communist states, in tandem, are exhibiting exactly the same behaviours, but I will concentrate on China, for now.

Take the Olympics as an example. Hitler and the Nazis presented a glossy, Hollywood-style image to the world, as did China. But to do so, both swept the supposed riff-raff of society – the homeless, gypsies and homosexuals – into camps to hide them. And then, using lip-syncing performers, obviously-underage athletes, and performance-enhancing drugs, China presented an image to the world that was utterly false.

This is a glamour, and Hollywood is masterful at it, which is exactly why the word 'glamorous' is so apt as a descriptor for it. A glamour hypnotically bedazzles the physical senses to present a beguiling illusional image. The glamorous nature of Hollywood is not a reference to the glitz and glamour, as many believe, it's a reference to the illusion of the glitz and glamour, the falsity of it.

It didn't even matter to China that we were privy to the false nature of the image and the various actions and behaviours necessary for maintaining it. It mattered only that the face they presented to the world was polished, like someone wearing far too much, caked on makeup. It might be okay from a distance but it looks god-awful when you get too close.

Let's have a look at other behaviours of the Nazis: racial genocide, murder and assassination, the building of concentration camps, imprisonment and torture, mind control. Yes, yes, yes, yes and yes. It's all there in China. With things added. Gagging the media? Yes. The expulsion of foreign journalists? Yes. The disappearances of those who are daring to speak out? Yes.

Even the uniforms of the Chinese military remind me of the uniforms of the Nazis – uniforms that are supposed to symbolise the ruthless power of a military authority but are, in truth, nothing more than pretty costumes in the Nazi/China drama.

Primary Tools of Darkness: Over-bloated Egos

Taking control of the world, or at least carving out vast empires, is a common theme of the Darkness simply because their primary tool is always the over-bloated ego – men, usually, although women are susceptible, too, who crave power the way a vampire thirsts for blood.

And so we see the same old pattern of wounded, dysfunctional, power-hungry egos at the helm of these communist states – egos that crave power at all and any cost. As The Matrix: Reloaded<sup>3</sup> puts it so aptly, what does any man with power want? More power.

These egos are wholly and souly predictable. Just like Hitler and the flock of Nazi vultures he gathered around him, all the Darkness has to do is give these egos, like Vladimir Putin, a taste of power, and the over-bloated egos at the helm of these political states are whipped up into a power frenzy. They are no different to drug addicts given just a taste of heroin . . .

And they are like toys the Darkness only has to wind up and then let loose, just like Hitler. There is, however, nothing toy-like or playful about the brutality these egos mete out. Again, like Hitler, they are, in fact, incredibly dangerous because, among other things, they are utterly devoid of compassion, and care not one whit about human suffering.

Manoeuvring Pieces on a Chess Board

As part of the manoeuvring, manipulating, and preparation for war, those at the helm of the Russia-China alliance have become masterful at destabilising western countries, politically and economically and even, in the case of the United States, socially. In this, along with the virus, social media has become a powerful tool at their disposal, particularly through the use of social media cults, which is exactly why these are so dangerous.

Tampering with the US elections and Britain's vote on membership in the European Union is child's play to these people. It's why social media was conceived of and implemented in the first place. And as I've said previously, they don't have to do much to hide. By its very nature, social media hides them.

Are we really going to hold onto the misguided belief that this is the modern era and, as such, countries don't behave like the Nazis anymore? Perhaps we'd be right, too. But the Darkness behind these two new faces of tyranny doesn't agree. It will behave any way it chooses to behave. All it needs is a couple of egos vulnerable to the lure, the seduction of what's on offer – power.

Oh, but, the United Nations (UN) will not allow it. Right? After all, this is exactly what the UN was established for, wasn't it? To stop these kinds of travesties?

So how successfully has the UN dealt with the various African dictators we've seen over the last decades? How effectively did the UN protect the people of Rwanda, for example? Or prevent the absolute decimation of Syria and the mass graves they're digging over there? Or deal with the use of chemical weapons in that country supplied by Russia? Or step in and stop the recent war between Armenia and Azerbaijan that has resulted in the deaths of thousands of innocents?

Did the UN prevent the deaths of thousands upon thousands of Muslim men and the systematic rape of thousands upon thousands of Muslim women on Milosevic's watch? Is the UN effectively resolving the Rohingya refugee/humanitarian crisis in Myanmar?

Yes, a most effective organisation it is . . . not.

It's not up to the UN to stop this tyranny. It's up to us.

Negating Free Will

Human consciousness is not evolved enough, especially now, in the modern era, to authentically exercise Free Will. But this does not change the fact that we were given the gift (or the curse) of Free Will. No one here has the right to forcibly take it away from us.

What all this demonstrates, though, is the fact that Free Will is a fallacy. There is, in truth, no such thing. If we exercise our Free Will and ignore, dishonour, and negate the inner guidance of our higher-dimensional Self – the highest facet of our consciousness – then we become those same puppets whose strings are placed in the hands of the Darkness that currently controls the Separated human reality.

Have we been exercising our Free Will in Melbourne recently? Ah no, not at all. The rest of Australia has stood by and watched, sending us messages of encouragement, just like the presidents and politicians in the US who offer their 'prayers and condolences' to all those people who've lost loved ones in the gun massacres over there. Useless, meaningless rhetoric. Completely ineffective.

Those people whose eyes have been opened and who have taken the risk to speak about what they see in the world (only some of whom I referenced in the first series), have invariably brought upon themselves the dubious label of 'conspiracy theorist', which effectively gives others the perfect excuse to either ignore or revile them. But these people have brought your attention to the agenda of Darkness.

I can hear and sense many of you asking the same vital questions. What do we do with this knowledge? How can we change it? How can we fight back? How do we stop it?

Sliced, Diced, Censored, Scripted News Programs . . . or Programming

From personal experience, I know you are never going to stop focussing on the 'storms' they're generating whilst ever you allow yourselves to be spoon fed by manipulated journalism. If you don't stop watching their sliced, diced, censored, scripted news programs, you will absolutely struggle to shift your focus. The news networks are programming human consciousness all-too-successfully and all-too-easily.

Likewise, social media. Social media has become a cancer in modern society – a cancer that is affecting far too many of us.

How do we deal with an electrical appliance that has become dangerous? We simply disconnect it, and we make damn sure it's not reconnected until it's repaired. Well, social media is toxic electricity, or energy, and it is damaging us as 'appliances'. There is no repair for it because its conception, design, and intent are all purely malevolent. But there is a repair for us if we disconnect from social media. We will not be disconnected from each other, and we will keep functioning.

Ever is it so that humans ignore our warnings

Why would the Guardians allow the horrors of those two world wars? They did so because they could not, back there, circumvent both choice itself and its consequences. Furthermore, there was a need for humanity to see just how bad it can get in this state of Perpetual Separation we exist in and as, and there was also a need for humanity to see the true face of the tyranny that binds us.

Now the Guardians see it coming again and so, this time, we are warning humanity.

It is, however, an age-old phenomenon that humanity ignores such warnings. Just ask Noah or the prophetess, Cassandra, who warned the Trojans of approaching war. So, too, will it be again that many humans will ignore these warnings.

But this time, there is a difference. Not everyone will ignore our warnings. As such, it is not to everyone that I speak. It is to those who will not ignore our warnings that I speak.

Changing Your Frame of Reference

If we fight the tyranny on its terms, we will lose. On the Separated physical plane of existence, we are powerless and, as such, we are no match for them. On this physical plane, the tyranny is in control. If we fight it its way, if we pit ourselves against it on this plane of existence, we will plunge humanity into a war so horrific there will be no winners. Really. With the technological advances in weaponry from the end of WWII to now, we will decimate this planet and ourselves with it.

The Work I have outlined in the previous monographs of both series, particularly that of dancing with internal shadows and breaking the hold of the ego, will strip from within you everything that holds and anchors you to the physical plane of existence. With each shadow stripped and dissolved, you will set free your vision, your focus, your perspective.

And if you do it enough, you will change your frame of reference from physicality to metaphysicality. It makes sense, does it not? If you do the Work to look beyond the curtain of illusion, you'll eventually do it naturally and effortlessly. And when you do, you will change your point of existence.

Taking the Fight to the Metaphysical Plane

I wrote a fantasy novella, The Silver Wolf<sup>5</sup>, that illustrates this dynamic. The vampire in my story symbolises different levels of those things we battle on the physical plane. On an individual level, he symbolises the ego, but on a higher level, he symbolises the physical manifestations of the tyranny of Darkness and their tools, the over-bloated egos.

On the physical plane, the confrontation between my heroine, Lliandra, and the vampire is incredibly dangerous for her, but on the metaphysical plane, where she exists, he is the one in supreme danger, as he finds out to his detriment.

She can see through, and past, the physicality of their confrontation, beyond the curtain of illusion, and because she can, she sees the black hole at the centre of his being. She sees his fear, and she sees that he is his fear.

In Vladimir Putin, I see a scared little boy, and try as I might, I can't see him as anything else. I don't know what his background is but I see in him someone who is trapped in it, unable to break free. For all his ruthlessness and supposed power, I see someone who is powerless, and who is at the mercy of his powerlessness.

You can see the same principle of physicality and metaphysicality illustrated in The Matrix: Revolutions<sup>6</sup>, the third movie in the trilogy. Neo and the Oracle could not fight Smith (symbolic of the clone-like Zombie state of existence) on his terms or on his plane of existence. On his plane of existence, they were no match for him, and there was simply no way Neo could have fought all of them, the Smiths.

On the higher plane of existence, however, beyond the physicality of the confrontation between Neo and Smith, the reversal of power is absolute. There, Smith did not possess the power, the knowledge or the wherewithal to fight Neo and the Oracle.

The depiction of Light blowing apart the Smiths in a chain reaction is also profoundly significant because this does actually occur. How? Through the Unified Field of Pure Abstract Potential<sup>7</sup> to which we are all connected, plugged into. And through entanglement.

Whether writing about this dynamic or depicting it in a movie, the inherent difficulty of conveying the truth of what occurs is directly due to the fact that the dynamic itself is beyond the five physical senses. How do you depict setting free the Light of higher consciousness in a way that conveys it to those who have no experience of it and who are, therefore, caught in physicality, seeing only physicality? I think they did a damn good job of it in the third Matrix movie.

The New Exodus

Within ourselves, within our own individual consciousnesses, we can undo all of it – the wound of Perpetual Separation, the abject and chronic ignorance, the addictive interaction with reality, the satiation of want that consumes focus and locks reality in place, the hold of the ego.

Do the Work to dance with, dissolve and release your shadows. Recognise and honour the Processes running like underground currents through your lives. Allow reality to take its rightful place as a tool of Process. Recognise want for what it is, and allow your Process to heal you of your addiction to it. Set free your own higher consciousness so that you become infused by the most powerful, higher-dimensional intelligence.

We hold the power within us to reverse everything they've done to us. And when we do we will dissolve the culture of denial and apathy that has us in its grip. Awaken to the truths I and others are telling you. Know. Allow knowledge to open your eyes. See beyond the curtain of illusory physicality.

Know that reality is, in truth, only ever an extension of your thoughts. If enough of us do this, we will Create the current that will direct the flow of a different experience and a different human reality.

Ironically, we think we're in control of our realities now, but if we do this Work, we will truly become masters of our realities, and the Darkness will have no power over us.

This is the new exodus from slavery into freedom. This is the new Promised Land. This is an authentically higher-dimensional existence.

A Call to Arms

So, yes, I am calling you to arms. Are we to stand by and allow the tyranny of Darkness to repeat the horror of those two world wars? Absolutely not. Join me in my fight against the tyranny of Darkness lurking in the shadows behind the Russia-China alliance. So many of you are capable of doing so, but we don't fight it without, we fight it within.

Don't you think if I could wave a magic wand to transform and transcend you I would? Don't you know that I would transform/transcend you in such a way as to avoid the pain I've been through, if I could?

But I cannot. I have the power to trigger transformation, but I do not have the power to transform you. You, and you alone, hold that power within you. It is that power I tap into now. It is that power I touch, now, and stir into life. Give it free reign within you. Trust its guidance. It will take you exactly where you need to go – into and through yourselves.

I have given you much to Work with, and I will give you more . . . much more. You have everything you need within you to do this.

We have a golden opportunity to reclaim human consciousness for the Light.
