

Monograph Thirty-two: The Darkness Behind the Curtain

If transcendent Knowledge is one of Love's beautiful aspects, and it is, then its polar opposite – ignorance – is one of the uglier aspects of the Darkness. In fact, the Darkness and those who serve it need ignorance to survive and thrive, which is why they've Worked damned hard to mould and shape a culture of ignorance in this, our modern society. In our ignorant state we are wholly and soul-ly at their mercy. But this Truth, if turned around, Works in our favour. Knowledge is one of our greatest protections in our fight against the Darkness, and so, it is, therefore, also one of our greatest weapons.

Getting this one over and done with as quickly as possible

My intention, from the outset, is to write this monograph in as little time as is physically and metaphysically possible.

The monographs hone my focus, allowing me to concentrate on whichever topic the monograph is dealing with specifically, and this aspect of writing them, as you can probably appreciate, necessitates me intensely contemplating and spending time with, even immersing myself in, each specific topic. Also, once I turn the tap on with respect to whichever topic I'm Working* on, my subconscious doesn't restrict itself to those moments when I'm sitting at my computer typing.

It does, in fact, do its best Work* at night, in the darkness, when I should, technically, be trying to fall asleep. Or, even more powerfully, when I am asleep. This is seemingly ironic, given the topic of this monograph, until you remember that in the Sun's light we do our best conscious Work, but when she descends out of sight, allowing the moon's light to reign supreme, we do our best unconscious Work.

My subconscious rules my nights, and it relishes the opportunities afforded it accordingly. I do not want to spend a whole lot of my nights with my subconscious Working on this particular topic, hence my desire to write it as quickly as possible.

The Introduction of a New Dynamic

Whilst I love spending endless amounts of time honing in on and being immersed in my Work with reality and our new Working relationship with it, I have, as you can possibly also appreciate, no wish nor any desire to do so with the subject of the Darkness* behind the curtain of our illusional reality. Spending time thinking about the Darkness and its effects on consciousness is definitely not one of my favourite pastimes.

Interestingly, as if in acknowledgement of this, a new dynamic has come into play with the writing of the monographs in this fourth series. I'm writing the first four concurrently, at the same time, almost as if my soul is showing off . . . to me, not to anyone else.

But it's not. My higher-dimensional Self* has introduced this dynamic precisely so that I don't have to spend time immersed in the topic of this monograph, and, more importantly, so that I can inherently maintain something that is an essential component when dealing with the Darkness in any way, shape or form – Balance*.

Automatic Protection

I have no choice but to include this monograph as one that will comprise the fourth series because whilst the Darkness is definitely in the Process* of losing control of this human Thought* and human consciousness as a whole, or a collective, this does not in any way preclude it, or them, controlling, or trying to control, individuals.

And nor does it preclude higher-dimensional entities of Darkness from incarnating themselves to try to wreak their own malevolent brand of havoc in this human experience. They are as entitled to come here as any soul, whether the human Thought is lower or higher dimensional. Some of them are powerful enough to do so in both states.

Put simply, despite the dramatic prophecies of our institutionalised religions that have the archangel Michael taking on Satan in an epic final battle, fourth-dimensional existence is not and will not be an automatic protection against the forces of Darkness that seek to feed on and control us.

Their Hatred of Knowledge

This, we need to know because nothing can and does protect us and arm us against the lures, seductions, the false whispered promises, the agendas and manipulations, and the attacks of the Darkness more than transcendent Knowledge*.

Which means Knowledge is one of our most powerful weapons in our fight against the Darkness. This is why they hate it so much. When we start to witness the effects of the transmutation of ignorance into Knowledge, believe me when I tell you, we will come to understand just how much the Darkness really does hate Knowledge.

Their hatred of it is the reason they took great pains to malign it in their religious texts, in the earliest chapters, too, turning it into the 'original sin', the implication being this sin forms the core of all sin because now we know good from evil. Oh the irony! Knowledge, our salvation, is to blame for our fall from grace?? The True* culprit is the absence of it.

The Threat of Knowledge

The apple of Knowledge, which they of the Darkness malign in allegorical stories like the Garden of Eden, is the fruit of the soul because it nourishes consciousness as a whole and so facilitates the healing and Connection* necessary for restoring True health. And it encourages and supports empowerment and informed discernment – the ability to know for oneself what serves and what doesn't and to act accordingly. And it facilitates Movement* and the natural evolution of thought and belief.

All of which threaten the Dark systems of control, their strategies and agendas, and their ability to mould, shape and manipulate us.

So, given the Truth* that they must snuff out, one way or another, anything and everything that threatens their control, it makes sense they of the Darkness would malign Knowledge, especially since they're effectively killing two birds – the Knowledge of the soul and the Knowledge in the soul – with one very false stone. Without these, consciousness is starved, crippled, contained and suppressed, and the power of the soul is greatly reduced.

The Bedrock of Enslavement

The Darkness needs chronic ignorance if it is to survive and thrive, yes, as I've repeated many times in these monographs, because we cannot break free of our enslavement if we don't know we are enslaved. Or why, or how we're enslaved. And nor can we fight back against those who have forced imprisonment and enslavement on us.

In *The Matrix*¹, the bad guys – the machines – were easy to spot, even in the Matrix, and, as such, they could be fought. But only by those who were free to see. In our ignorant state, with the Light* of the Ancient Wisdom* and transcendent Knowledge extinguished, the Darkness is able to hide in the shadows and behind the scenes, out of sight, from where it manipulates us. Worse, it's able to generate those shadows so it can hide.

The Bedrock of Hermetic Blindness

Most importantly, though, the Darkness is able to hide beyond the limits imposed on our vision by our Hermetic blindness. Not that it's hard for them to exist beyond the limits of our vision. We are so narrow in our ability to see and we have such a limited range courtesy of our tunnel vision, they hardly have to move at all to put themselves beyond the limits of our sight, and so they are barely inconvenienced.

Chronic ignorance forms the bedrock of our Hermetic blindness because, as I've also repeated many times, no one, regardless of how powerful they are, can see beyond the limits of their belief, knowledge and understanding. And then the bedazzlement and beguilement of the mechanisms of manipulation, and all the noise generated by these, capture what little focus, sight and attention there is left to us.

But the chronic ignorance is also crucial to their agendas that cause and then perpetuate the Separation of consciousness. And it's crucial for putting Set in charge and ensuring he remains so. And it's crucial for generating and fostering the fear that is the mainstay of Atlantis and Set's control – the Devil's Playground.

The True Protection of Knowledge

So, the protection afforded us by Knowledge, the antidote to our chronic ignorance, is both multi-dimensional and multi-faceted.

Knowledge begins to break up the bedrock that forms the premise of Hermetic blindness, and then, with the foundations crumbling as our vision shifts and opens, all their edifices that depend on our Hermetic blindness also begin to crumble. And, the mechanisms of manipulation that also depend on our ignorance begin to lose their potency and their power to manipulate and control.

Apart from the fact that Knowledge and ignorance are polar opposites of a continuum, the reason Knowledge breaks up the bedrock of our Hermetic blindness and is, therefore, such a very great threat to the Darkness and its malevolent agendas is simple. As with Truth and the Ancient Wisdom, Knowledge is illuminating.

The Illumination of Knowledge

In facilitating Connection with the soul, Knowledge facilitates Connection with the Light in the soul. So Knowledge sheds light and Light on the shadows within us, particularly the shadow of ignorance, and it breaks down set-in-stone mindsets and beliefs, and it gets our thoughts Moving and flowing, partly by generating questions, and questioning, as a way of being, which is supremely healthy.

Questioning, and questing, provide the impetus for the seeking of answers, which, when discovered, or gained, build on themselves, exacerbating the whole seeking Process* exponentially. As The Matrix rightly makes very clear, it's the questions that propel us forward. Thus is the illumination of Knowledge evolving and elevating, because these two go hand in hand.

The Basic Principle of Light and Dark

The illuminating power of Knowledge sweeps away all the complexities, resolving the deceits, misnomers and misconceptions into one simple and most basic principle of Light and Dark that holds true at any and every level of Universal Being*. Darkness cannot exist in Light because Light banishes Darkness.

Just as a light switched on in a dark room ends, abruptly, the dominance of the darkness in that room, so, too, does Knowledge, as a powerful characteristic of Light, with its illuminating effects, end the power of the Darkness over our consciousness and, with this, the ability of the Darkness to dominate and control us.

The Archangel Michael and His Battle With Satan

As I alluded to earlier, our modern institutionalised religious texts and mythologies would have us believe the archangel Michael will, at the 'end times', take on Satan, or Lucifer, in an epic final battle and defeat him, throwing him out of our human experience, putting him in his place, and casting him back down into the pits of hell where he belongs.

Hopefully, after reading the previous series of monographs, you're aware of the mis-interpretation and misunderstanding afforded us by the distorting filters of indoctrination and institutionalisation and, more powerfully, by our very-unfortunate tendency to take these kinds of myths literally thereby robbing them of their True symbolic meaning.

First of all, we need to Know the archangel Michael is not a single being. 'He' is not a 'he' at all. Michael is a dimension, or, more specifically, Michael is a dimension of consciousness. As are all the archangels. And, as such, they are, so they are neither male nor female, and both males and females can Work with them.

The archangelic realms, and the angelic realms more broadly, are real. As dimensions of consciousness, we can Work with them. We can speak with their Voice*, and many of us even hold their energy as a dimensional facet of our own higher consciousness.

Speaking with the Voice of Heaven

Which means many of us here, now, are incarnate archangels and angels. If entities of Darkness can incarnate, so, too, can we of the Light.

Many people have already been Working with the archangelic dimensions, especially Michael. When they do, they either act as channels for the messages coming through from these realms or they speak directly with the Voice of these dimensions. But as we ascend into fourth dimensionality, this dynamic of our existence will gain strength and momentum as our Connection with our own higher dimensionality is recognised, acknowledged, honoured and restored.

Put another way, when, and as, we honour ourselves this way we will also inherently restore and honour our Connection with higher dimensions, including, but definitely not limited to, the angelic and archangelic dimensions.

The Sword of Michael

And the more we open our eyes, our ears, our minds and our hearts to the metaphysical Truths and Knowledge in the messages coming through, and from those who speak directly with this Voice of heaven, the more the Darkness will be put in its place, the more Balance will be restored between the forces of Light and Darkness that do constant battle for human consciousness.

The Truth of Knowledge and Knowledge of Truth is the True Nature* of Michael's sword. In that sense, Michael can and will fight the Darkness, as the mythology tells us, but 'he' can also do something equally, if not more, vital. 'He' can arm and equip us so that we, too, can fight the Darkness ourselves, both within and without.

For those of us who hold angelic or archangelic dimensions within us as facets of our own higher-dimensional consciousness, we will not just speak with the Voice of heaven, we will bring angelic Light back into this human experience. This means there are many individuals here now whose Destiny it is to actively*, and hopefully consciously, participate in Michael's famous battle.

Calling on Michael for Help

The second aspect of the 'Michael' myths we need to revisit and re-Work to turn ignorance into Knowledge concerns our conceptualisation of hell.

The archangelic dimension we call 'Michael' does, indeed, counter the Darkness and keep it in its place. This much is true. The Darkness, in any of its forms, is banished in the Light of Michael's power, or the power of Michael's Light, whichever you prefer.

This is good to know if you're battling your own fears. We can call upon Michael for help, always, and 'he' will respond. This is an absolute Truth. In Working consciously with Michael, however, the real trick is learning to recognise that help when it comes, because it doesn't, and won't, necessarily take a form we expect.

This is especially so when we expect Michael to take away our fear and the circumstances generating it rather than doing the Work to acknowledge, confront and resolve it ourselves. Michael will never give us the kind of help that circumvents the Work we need to do with our own fear. Indeed, 'he' cannot give us this kind of help because this isn't actually help at all.

I think this is, at least in part, the reason why many people lose faith in Michael and think 'he' doesn't exist or isn't real. They don't understand the True Nature of Michael, but nor do they understand the true nature of fear generally and, more specifically, their own.

So let me reassure you. The archangel Michael is absolutely real. Thinking of him as a 'him', with a human name, as a sword-wielding warrior, facilitates our Connection with the True Nature of the strength and power of this dimension of Divine Consciousness* – a vital facet of Atum. So both the name and its associated imagery serve a valuable Purpose*. Or, put simply, the image puts us all on the same right page where Michael is concerned.

Locking the Gates of Hell

But, as strong and powerful as 'he' is, Michael will not and cannot throw the devil, or Lucifer, or Satan, back down into hell and then shut and lock the gates thereby rendering the rest of us forever safe from Satan's, or Lucifer's, or the devil's clutches.

Hell and heaven are polar-opposite states of being that we exist in whether we're incarnate or not, not just after death but also in life. And while others can Work their butts off to help us free ourselves from the state of being in hell, ultimately, we are the only ones who can change the status quo.

So no one, not even God, or Michael, can lock the gates of hell and throw away the key because hell has no gates to lock.

Whilst the multi-dimensional Truths of many different things, like Michael, are much more complex that we realise or recognise, the Truth of heaven and hell is surprisingly and remarkably simple. When we are not in heaven we are in hell. This is the same as for the principle of Light and Dark. When we are not in Light, we are in Darkness.

Contrary to popular and, in my opinion, convenient belief, hell is not a place of fire and brimstone we go to after death. Hell is the absence of all those beautiful characteristics of Love*. So hell is a place of desolation, darkness, descent, fear, Separation*, Imbalance*, destruction, ignorance, stagnation, and isolation, all of which we are experiencing individually and collectively right now, in our Atlantean existence.

The Complexity of the Dimensions of Darkness

The third aspect of the religious myths we need to take a new look at concerns the other side of the equation from Michael's Light and power – the Darkness.

The dimensions of consciousness that comprise the Darkness are far too complex, multi-faceted and multi-dimensional to conveniently roll up into a single entity who can, then, again conveniently, be battled and defeated, certainly in such a way that contains 'him' forevermore.

At an individual level, we all hold and battle fear – our own demons – within us, so there is darkness in all of us, and it's up to each of us to wage our own battle with that darkness and defeat it. As such, far from being absolved of the responsibility we must take for the darkness within us, that inner darkness will absolutely persist if we don't take responsibility for it. And it persists beyond death, so we take it with us through all our lives until we do take responsibility for it.

That's bad news, isn't it?

Souls in Darkness

For some, the darkness within is so great, courtesy of horrible choices made and actions taken that empower fear and lacerate their soul, the darkness of their fear casts their soul in such great, dark, and very profound shadow that it utterly prevents any Light within them from radiating and being expressed, if, indeed, there is any Light left to express.

These individuals are, then, souls in darkness, and they are, indeed, highly dangerous and destructive because their fear is so great it renders them insane, often ruthlessly so.

These people are vampiric because, as we can see in the events unfolding in our global political landscape, and not just in Russia's war in Ukraine (we're seeing it in North Korea, China and the United States, as well), they do not give a damn who or what they hurt and harm in their efforts to satiate their lusts and obsessions, and in their desperate quests to fill the power vacuum at the core of their being.

Vladimir Putin is not just hurting one country, he's hurting two, in more ways than one, too. He's not just killing Ukrainians and destroying the Ukrainian country and infrastructure, he's also killing his own people, throwing them into and at his useless war, and he's taking Russia back into the dark ages, causing it to haemorrhage one of its more valuable resources, a dynamic journalists and political commentators have nicknamed the 'brain drain'.

Likewise, the egoic powers that rule the United States have all but decimated that country. You know the old expression united we stand, divided we fall? Well, I would say they've plunged that country into covert civil war, with many different expressions of it, and I know there are many educated and knowledgeable individuals who agree with me. The polarisations there are extreme, and they are imploding that country.

Haemorrhaging Energy

Nothing drains us of energy more than fear, so when fear is as great as it is in these individuals, they are haemorrhaging energy, and they need to find a way to replenish it within themselves as a matter of quite extreme urgency.

This means looking for people to feed on, just like the vampire, and, depending on what they're prepared to do to feed, this also usually requires them to establish contexts around themselves within which they can feed, en masse. They become, then, classic and clichéd ginormous but utterly brutal over-bloated egos, and they are beyond rationale.

Remember I warned us in Monograph Thirty-one about psychosis that is characterised by a direct break with reality? These individuals connect with and see the world and their environment and their surrounding relationships only through the colour and texture of their very great fear, which means they exist in a different reality from the rest of us.

The Black Hole Singularity

This is also why they are incapable of empathy, sympathy and compassion, because the black hole of their fear sucks everything into itself and allows no Light in or out.

These people are always at the centre of political, social and religious cults. Regardless of the ideology they espouse, the vampiric nature of the cult is the cult's True raison d'être, and these individuals are like the gravitational super-dense, heavy singularity at the centre of the black hole of the cult. The ideology is the lure, the seduction, the disguise, and it is, therefore, nothing more than the means of manipulation. Or, rather, the means of feeding, and this is all it is.

The lack of authenticity in their espoused ideology, as rotten fruit, should make them easy to spot, but, again, as with the Matrix, only for those whose eyes and minds are open, free from blindness, and, as such, free to see what is really there, or what is there in Truth.

Unfortunately, as we are also seeing in our global landscape, like attracts like, so these vampiric egos attract others to them who perpetuate, encourage and feed their dark appetites.

Souls of Darkness

But there are, too, entities, or souls, of Darkness, and these come in many forms, with many different complex Natures, and appetites. If there are angels then it makes sense there will also be a polar opposite – demons. These entities of Darkness are far too numerous, multi-dimensional, and complex to be 'defeated' in a single battle.

And, when they incarnate, they look just like everyone else. Worse, as masters of deception, they know how to blend in, at least superficially, and, since a superficial existence is the very nature of what the Darkness has caused to be here, within which we take things and people only at face value, they are able to blend in effectively and easily.

Naught but Fodder for the Appetites of Darkness

Souls of Darkness take the dangers and an ability to hurt, harm and damage to a whole new dimensional level, as is evidenced by our entire existence. Unlike souls in darkness who are invariably focussed one way, on one thing – materiality – souls of Darkness are transcendently intelligent, able to perceive dimensional depth and to see beyond the limits imposed by Separated lower dimensionality.

They see beyond the curtain of illusion, in other words, beyond the barrier of materiality. But both the illusional curtain and materiality are the weapons they wield, the shields they hide behind, and the tools of their seductions.

And their ultimate target is the human soul, not just because they need to Separate us from our soul to control us, but also because they feed on the negative energy, or emotions, that seep, like pus, from wounds of fear. And the deeper the fears the more powerful the negative energy generated, the more satiated they are. They also feed on the negative ripple effects of chaos, trauma, grief, horror and terror generated by the choices and actions arising out of the deepest and darkest of our fears.

In our ignorant and Separated state, which they have orchestrated, we have been rendered naught but fodder for their Dark appetites, which The Matrix portrays perfectly.

An Unholy Sympathetic Vibration

Courtesy of an inner woundedness and very deep and dark fears that make souls in darkness particularly vulnerable to the Dark bargains and to the seductions on offer – a woundedness that generates a kind of unholy sympathetic vibration (I cannot use the word 'resonance' in this context) – souls of Darkness Work best with souls in darkness.

So much is this the case that souls of Darkness prey on souls in darkness, and souls in darkness are the most effective tools of souls of Darkness courtesy of the ease with which these individuals are manipulated, like puppets with a proverbial hand up their ass, or like toys the Darkness has only to wind up and set loose, which it happens to be masterful at.

Individuals like Hitler, Stalin and Julius Caesar then become tools of the Darkness in more ways than one, and this regardless of whether the unholy alliance is made consciously or unconsciously. Usually, it's made consciously, courtesy of the Dark bargains I referred to in the first series.

An Unholy Alliance

This unholy coupling of souls in darkness and souls of Darkness is a formidable one. It is, quite literally, a match made in hell. At the risk of stating the absolute obvious, unholy alliances such as these are best avoided. Unfortunately, once again, courtesy of our penchant for taking people at face value, especially when and where materialistic success is concerned, we don't avoid these people.

In fact, we do the opposite. We venerate them. We idolise them. We surrender our power to them. We relinquish our strings to these people, which inherently means we also, at the same time, directly hand them the means of control. So it is these unholy couplings, at individual, group and cultural levels, and in the highest echelons of our social, economic and political structures, that have been in control here.

As a direct consequence, far from avoiding these individuals and the ripple effects of their power lusts, obsessions and addictions, we are fully caught up in the maelstrom of those ripple effects.

The Origin of Satan

And, finally, in re-looking at the mythology of Michael and his battle with Satan, have I not gone to great lengths in these monographs to explain the origin of the entity we call 'Satan'? And have I not written extensively about him to facilitate a greater, vital understanding of how a principle of our own consciousness is being used against us?

When the principle of Set, the source of the Satan mythology, is held in Balance within us, it, or he, forms a vital part of the aspect of our consciousness that is Process. We need him. Thus, Michael would never lock 'Satan' away for this reason alone. To do so would put us out of Balance all over again.

At the highest dimensional levels of the Universe*, the value to consciousness of the principle of Set is fully recognised. The irony of this Truth is 'God' Knows the value of Satan. How many times have I repeated in these monographs that Set's Perpetual Separation, as horrific and painful as it is, in both its experience and its effects, has afforded us opportunities for learning through empirical experience that we would not otherwise have had?

But so, too, are the dimensions of the Darkness recognised as an inherent aspect of Divine Consciousness and are, therefore, fully catered for. The archangelic dimensions are born directly of that same inherent recognition and protection. They are one form of protection, because there are many.

Shouldering Responsibility

Remember, the Darkness was given permission to interfere with this human Thought for good reasons. As already stated, that interference has facilitated the experience of things we could not have experienced any other way. In that sense, the Darkness has formed a necessary ingredient.

And we also have to remember that we, on an individual, group, cultural and collective basis, courtesy of our Free Will*, have allowed the Darkness to wreak its particular brand of havoc. We have allowed ourselves to be herded like sheep. We have allowed ourselves to become their slaves. We have allowed ourselves to be seduced into the state of chronic ignorance and Perpetual Separation. While we were helped, we orchestrated our own fall from grace, as the Ancient Egyptian Osirian myths tell us.

Ignorant we may well be, but we still understand the basics of right and wrong, good and bad, and what it is to hurt and harm each other. Yet we so easily continue to violate our own consciences, and we so easily hurt each other. We can blame the Darkness all we like, but if we do, we won't heal and we won't Move on from where we are now. We have to shoulder the responsibility for our current state of affairs.

The Universe in Balance

The Darkness is, and it cannot not be. Darkness is an inherent part of the Universal Consciousness just as the Light is because it is the result of the Universe holding itself in Balance. Or, as The Matrix puts it, the Darkness is the result of the equation Balancing itself.

If you stop and think about it for a moment, you will see that you learn a lot from fear. As souls, and as incarnate beings, we experience many things and many different things out of the Light and the darkness within us, but the learning we gain from the darkness of fear within us is, invariably, potent, profound, powerful and very different.

And it sticks. We usually don't have to learn such things twice. Thus does darkness and the Darkness play a unique and valuable role in our evolutionary Process. But not a pleasurable one. Never a pleasurable one. There is nothing pleasant about the Darkness.

Polar Opposites

In fact, all of the beautiful characteristics of Light have their polar opposite in the Darkness.

So, as I've repeated often in my writing, if Light is Love, the Darkness is fear. If the Light is Wisdom, Knowledge, and Truth, the Darkness is abject ignorance, lies, deceit, falsity, manipulation, illusion, and delusion. If the Light is care and compassion, the Darkness is ruthless exploitation and abuse.

Light is Connection, so the Darkness is Separation and isolation. Light is unity, cohesion, communion, fellowship and community, so the Darkness is divisive, and the sort of divisiveness that stirs up conflict, which is how and why they've used our institutionalised religions to perfection, like maestros conducting an orchestra, setting us against each other. Light is resonant and harmonising, so the Darkness is discordant. And so it goes on.

The Christian Bible refers to these characteristics as 'fruit', and rightly so. It also rightly tells us by their fruit shall ye know them. The problem for us is, in our chronic ignorance, we have been rendered woefully inadequate at determining the difference.

In fact, we've been seduced and manipulated into believing the rotten fruit of the Darkness is good for us, and we've been seduced and manipulated into believing their lies and deceptions are Truth.

By Their Fruit Shall Ye Know Them

Serial killers are good examples of how the Darkness operates and behaves. These individuals fuel and foster fear in others because they feed off it, and they relish the power they have to make others feel fear. And they get off on the harm done to their victims, not just physically but metaphysically.

These individuals are either incarnate entities of Darkness or they've made Dark bargains that have allowed entities of Darkness to attach, giving either overt or tacit or even unconscious permission for those entities to Work through them. If entities of Darkness are Working through them, they have surrendered themselves, body and mind – a condition I simply cannot comprehend.

As entities of Darkness, they seem to be soulless because there is no Light within them, and this void of Light is often expressed in their hard, black eyes, and in the fact that they possess not a scrap or a remnant or even a hint of empathy, care or compassion.

Hypnotic Beguilement

But these are the easy ones to spot. Often, they give themselves up, eventually and after a killing spree, because they want to announce themselves to the world. They want to be given the credit they believe is their due. They want to be elevated above the ordinary masses. They want to let the rest of us know they are apart from us, and they are different from us. And to let us know they are playing with us, because so they are.

The trouble is, of course, that souls of Darkness are highly intelligent, so they know how to blend in, as I wrote earlier, and they know how to appear like the rest of us. Worse, they understand the multi-faceted and multi-dimensional nature of consciousness, so they know how to use our physical senses against us, with great effect.

They wear a glamour, in other words, in many forms and many different guises, like a costume that is so bedazzling it's all we see. A glamour can be thought of as a form of hypnotic beguilement, which is why the Bible warns us to be discerning when it comes to the fruit of behaviours, intents, motives, choices, actions, etc. And it also warns us to beware of wolves in sheep's clothing.

The Hermetic blindness generated by lower-dimensional existence, especially in its Separated, chronically-ignorant state, absolutely facilitates the effectiveness of the glammers worn, or adopted, by souls of Darkness. We don't recognise them at all because we're not aware of them, so we're not vigilant, but nor do we know how to recognise them, which is effectively leaving them free to run rampant. And so they are.

An Irresponsible Conversation

When I was a child, maybe eight or nine or thereabouts, I heard a conversation that turned out to be very influential. It occurred around our dining table, over dinner, when we had guests for whom these topics were of interest because they believed evil had directly touched their extended family courtesy of a sister-in-law who was more-than-dabbling in black witchcraft. And, as it turned out, they were right. Many years after the conversation I heard, the sister-in-law and her entire family were violently murdered. The only survivor, her eldest son, was convicted of the murders initially, spending many years in prison, but was subsequently acquitted.

That's not actually the story I intend to tell here, although it is, too, one of a collection I've amassed. That boy's story was full of all sorts of very weird details, which I won't elaborate on here.

Looking back, I think it was insensitive and irresponsible of the adults at the table, including, or maybe especially, my parents, to discuss these kinds of things with children present. I've never forgotten it, and, as a little girl, I was adversely affected by their dinner-table conversation, and this expressed itself, for many years afterwards, in nightmares and a fear of the dark.

Ankhs of Amassed Stories

But I also know I heard the story back then, and have heard many more since, not as a warning, because, as with drugs, I've never needed such warnings. I've always innately and naturally known what to steer clear of.

Rather, I heard the story because I was meant to – another of those ankhs of Isis I've referenced in these monographs. Only through writing these monographs have incidents and experiences occurring in my childhood made sense, and, as I've stated previously, whilst they seemed trivial at the time, they've turned out to be highly significant.

As Light, I cannot close my eyes to the Darkness, or, like an emu, bury my head in the sand and pretend it doesn't exist. That's simply not an option, or a luxury, I'm allowed. On the contrary, I have needed to Know the Darkness exists, and I have needed to Know something of its fundamental Nature because I am one of those individuals here to actively, consciously participate in Michael's famous battle.

The Story of the Woman in the Next Suburb

So, to the story I do intend to tell here, the story I heard that night at the dinner table.

My parents were heavily involved in the Christian scene, which is how they came to know what occurred. Late one night, a close friend and associate of theirs got a phone call requesting help from people who did not know how to deal with a situation. A woman in the next suburb from ours whose husband was away on a business trip thought it would be fun, or novel, to play one of the games with a group of girl friends.

And they called something into the house.

Whatever it was got into bed with her. She ran out of the house screaming, and whoever was trying to help her got my dad's associate involved. He went into and through the house, which I think was quite brave of him, but he could sense and see nothing. I'm not sure what he could have done if he had seen or sensed anything because, knowing him as I did, he really was not equipped to deal with a situation like that. I'm not even sure he would have believed the woman.

A Lack of Belief is No Protection

I was reminding mum of the story again recently because I knew I was going to write about it, and she told me something I didn't know all those years ago. Whatever it was they called in did not go, and why would it? Who is there, really, who can deal with such an entity in this, our modern era?

The woman's life spiralled into chaos, or came unravelled after this, and her marriage disintegrated. She couldn't and didn't handle the consequences of playing around with something she no doubt thought was just a game. And the unravelling of her life coupled with her initial experience would indicate to me the entity she called in didn't attach itself to the house, it attached itself to her.

People think these games are fun. They're not. People think these kinds of things are cool and exciting. They're not. Nor are they make believe. And it makes no difference at all whether people believe in them or not. A lack of belief is absolutely no protection. If anything, a lack of belief makes individuals extremely vulnerable.

Playing Around with a Ballistic Missile Launcher

Seances, black magic or Satanic rituals, black witchcraft, and Ouija Boards are highly dangerous. In our ignorant state, engaging with these kinds of things can be likened to children playing around with a ballistic missile launcher, thinking it's a toy.

The consequences are beyond dangerous because they can't be dealt with in the usual or normal ways. You can't lock these entities up, like a naughty child, once you call them in. You can't smack them and send them to bed without any dinner or waggle your finger in their face and tell them to behave themselves.

They are so far beyond our frame of reference that we are hopelessly and helplessly out of our depth with them, which they take full advantage of. They are so far beyond the limits of our knowledge and understanding that we don't even really think they're real, to our extreme detriment, as the woman in my story learnt from personal experience. They are real, and, as Darkness, they are both highly dangerous and highly destructive.

The ancient Priesthoods were able to deal with these Dark entities, and so much more, because they were Knowledgeable, prepared, and properly trained. Not so the priesthoods of today. Throwing holy water or brandishing a cross is as futile as playacting, which is what it is. Far from being a holy symbol, a cross is a symbol of entrapment in materiality, which, ironically, makes it a symbol of Darkness (unless it's equal sided), not Light.

The Story of the Sister

And, then, in my mid-twenties, I heard another story that's also always stayed with me.

This time, a friend with whom I was working told me the story of her sister. This sister got involved with the games and the black magic stuff whilst at university. One night in particular, the sister took my friend with her to a seance. My friend was only a young girl at the time, and when they got there, she freaked out and told her sister she didn't want to go in but would, instead, wait in the car.

After a long while, the sister came out and got into the car, and she was white as a ghost and shaking like a leaf. She never would or did tell my friend what happened that night, but she asked my friend never to tell anyone about it.

After this, the sister started behaving in ways that were alien to her own nature. My friend told me the two of them had a fight at one point, and the sister picked her up as if she weighed nothing at all and threw her bodily, like a rag doll, from one side of the kitchen to the other. When they talked about it afterwards, the sister confessed she could see herself doing these kinds of things but had no control over it.

After years of battling what was diagnosed as 'mental illness', complete with medications and therapies that did nothing at all to alleviate the problem, the sister bought the entire family expensive presents for Christmas, and she committed suicide.

Mental Illness

It is not my intention to scare anyone by sharing these stories. It is my intention to alert people to the fact that these rituals and games are real, and they open doors to and invite in real entities and forces that we are not able to handle.

Because these forces are so far beyond our frame of reference, in consulting the medical profession, there is only one diagnosis a professional can make. But whilst these entities do absolutely bring on mental illness, or insanity, and psychosis, because this is the price paid for meddling with something that is beyond the limits of our knowledge and understanding, it is an insanity that is far more complex than ordinary mental illness, which is why medications invariably do not work.

My friend's sister was never going to be able to live a normal, ordinary life. She deprived herself of the possibility of living such a life when she dabbled in things she obviously didn't fully understand. And she knew it, which is why she ended her life. The simple but horrible Truth is she wasn't alone in her own body, and she did not have full control of her own mind. She had surrendered both to something else, something Dark.

Attachment

Entities of Darkness are, like any soul, strong or weak, powerful or powerless, or anything in between. And so, too, are we strong or weak, powerful or powerless, or anything in between. Regardless of its strength, an entity of Darkness cannot attach to a soul of powerful Light, but the same cannot be said for souls less powerful, certainly less powerful than the entity itself.

And there are, in this dimension now, many things that weaken, suppress, even erode, our Light and, therefore, us. Fear erodes Light, and deep and powerful fears erode Light powerfully. When fear dominates and prevails in our psyche, we are vulnerable to these entities of Darkness.

I am no expert, but I know these entities are able to attach through our energy, or chakra, system, and, in particular, through the lower three chakras, the second in particular. So if those three chakras are clogged and choked, backed up, dark and heavy with fear, shadow, scars and other wounds, then we are vulnerable.

Losing Control of Thought

If a strong or powerful entity of Darkness attaches in this way, whether an individual is aware of it or not, it controls thought, and, as my friend's sister experienced, behaviour and action, as well. For such an individual, the thoughts generated by the Dark entity become his or her thoughts for all intents and purposes. Or, rather, the Dark thoughts become impossible to distinguish from that individual's own normal thoughts.

But, as thoughts of Darkness, which, for all intents and purposes become that individual's own thoughts (yes, I know, this is repeated, for good reason), they are powerful and compelling, invariably swamping, or swallowing, overriding, or dominating, that individual's own thoughts. This renders these Dark thoughts all but impossible to counter and certainly to control.

This is, too, how the darkness within us of our own fears operates, generating thoughts of darkness within us and emitting streams of dark thoughts that are actually our own.

If the entity of Darkness and the attachment are both powerful enough, the old clichéd conceptualisation of possession occurs, and the whole idea of the puppet with the proverbial hand up its ass becomes an apt description of what is experienced. In other words, the entity's control of the mind and the body is complete.

It's worth knowing, at this point, too, that cavorting with entities of Darkness introduces such a mix into the energy system, like including a poison in a cocktail, that it can tend to fry the circuit of and in the brain, which then manifests as symptoms similar to those experienced in Parkinson's disease (and that's not to say everyone suffering from this disease has cavorted with Darkness). Hitler and Caesar both exhibited symptoms arising from the unholy alliance they'd struck, and now rumours abound that Putin is exhibiting similar symptoms as well.

Opening Doorways in the Mind

But entities of Darkness don't necessarily have to attach to wreak their own brand of havoc in and through an individual's consciousness.

As I have repeated many times, substances like drugs open doorways in the mind that should remain firmly shut, and with these opened doorways, entities of Darkness are provided a portal of entry at worst or a means of destabilising a mind at best by interfering with thought without actually coming in.

Again, someone I know who shall remain anonymous is a diagnosed schizophrenic courtesy of taking LSD whilst at university. From conversations we've had, I know the doorways opened up in his mind have allowed in very clear memories of a life he lived as a soldier in the Vietnam War.

Opened Doors that Should Remain Shut

In fact, I can see he has a very strange and a very strong connection to that life, as if the two lives are halves of one whole somehow. I can see he incarnated again very quickly and at a time that was in the direct aftermath of that war, perhaps in fulfilment of the Purpose of witnessing, first hand, the consequences of it.

The medical profession and his own treating physician believe his fantasies are the pure fabrications of a mentally destabilised mind, but I know and I can see this is not the case at all. In a very real sense, he's living two realities, courtesy of the memories he's allowed in through the opened doorway in his mind, and the reality of his previous life and its corresponding personality is, perhaps, the stronger of the two, which is tough for him because the context of his current ordinary reality simply does not support it.

So an aspect of the coping mechanism of his mind and his current personality is the development of contexts that do support the previous-life memories, and these are, I think, the fantasies, or fabrications. One of the reasons the past reality is so strong is a heavy burden of guilt he carries in his soul courtesy of something that happened in that life.

The Voices of Fallen Comrades

He believes his voices are the soldiers who were under his command in that previous life, all of whom he was responsible for getting killed. I believe his voices are the higher-dimensional guides we all have and Work with, just with a clearer line of communication than we normally have. But I also acknowledge that he could be right and I could be wrong. Or the voices could be a mix of the two.

I like his voices, a lot. They have a distinct personality that's different from his, and they are helpful. They are constantly directing him to make healthier choices about his life. And, they've led him through a Process of healing with respect to the woundedness he incurred in that previous life and the burden of guilt he's carried. In that sense, his fantasies have absolutely served him well. Have I not said repeatedly that when our imagination is active and strong we don't need reality as a tool of Process?

Whether due to his mental illness or not, he is more open minded about what's really out there and what's really going on than anyone else I've yet met, and he has made some courageous and admirable changes in his life, not least of which is that of looking in the mirror and facing his woundedness.

But what if his voices were malevolent, or Dark, directing him to make harmful choices, not just for him but also for others?

The Dark Priests

The Dark Priests I've referenced all the way through The Monograph Series are fifth dimensional entities of Darkness.

My designation of them as the 'Dark Priests' is not just a way of referring to them. As a label, it is also a means of reducing them to something somewhat more benevolent so that I can write about what they're doing without necessarily focussing on them.

But the Truth is they are anything but benevolent. In fact, or in Truth, they are extremely malevolent. Everything I've just written about entities of Darkness absolutely applies to them. If you want to Know just how malevolent they are then take a deep breath, brace yourself, and have a much-closer look at the Nazis before, during and after World War II (they migrated to South America where they attempted to build the Fourth Reich and seamlessly continued their atrocities).

From black magic rites and rituals to human slavery and sacrifice, from genetic tampering and manipulation to the direct control of consciousness through the use of symbolism, hypnosis, torture, drugs, propaganda and programming, from extreme racism and misogyny to a total disregard for all human life, it's all there, not just as behaviours but as the underlying agendas from which those behaviours were generated.

A Microcosm of Agenda

Nazi Germany was a microcosm of the macrocosmic agenda of the Dark Priests – a concentrated vortex of their Dark energy – which means they showed us their True Face, and they revealed their hand, to use a poker euphemism. The war itself provided them a context within which they were completely free to operate without the inconvenience of accountability, ethics, morals, political correctness, acceptable modes of behaviour, or a need to hide in the shadows.

And in the vortex of pure evil that was established in this time, space and place, the fruit of which is a testament to just how evil that vortex was, the Dark Priests themselves were able to incarnate. And so they did. I'll leave it to you to decide which of the central characters in the Nazi drama were incarnated Si'il, except to say Hitler was not one.

As that war perfectly demonstrates, we are a specific focus of their malevolence, as if we have their full and exclusive attention, which we pretty-much do, and not just because they've been given permission to operate here, either. There are multiple reasons for their focus on us which I won't go into here, although I have covered a handful of those reasons across the preceding series. The whys are of less importance to us than the focus itself.

Fifth Dimensional Entities of Darkness

I acknowledge their fifth dimensionality is probably not going to mean a whole lot to most people, so know this. Their fifth dimensionality means they can look upon this, our human experience, from 'above', looking down on us and seeing things we cannot comprehend, like master chess players who are able to see the whole game, from beginning to end, too, without the burdensome interference of time.

It means they have a vantage point that allows them to implement their agendas dozens of moves ahead, which is what that war actually was, and it means they are able to anticipate our every move, catering for and countering any possible move we may make.

It means they are able to mould, shape and manipulate us, again, in ways we currently cannot grasp, although, I do hold the hope that the Knowledge in these monographs will at least begin to open up and expand our powers of comprehension and understanding.

Clever Malevolence

When you begin to grasp the nature and consequences of the very great wound of Perpetual Separation alone, before we look at any of the other wounds of consciousness they've caused to be, then you also begin to understand just how malevolently clever their agendas and manipulations are.

And you can begin to comprehend how much those agendas and manipulations are based on a highly-transcendent Knowledge of consciousness and of us, as humans.

Every way they can possibly Separate us, so they have. Every measure they can possibly implement to cripple us and keep us chronically ignorant, so they have. Every manipulation they can possibly employ to enslave us, so they have.

Targeting Every Aspect of Us

When we Know about them and the forces of Darkness that seek to feed on and control us, then we can start to build our Knowledge of what those agendas, strategies, measures and manipulations are. And the next natural progressive step is then applying ourselves to making a stand against their manipulations and taking back our own power, especially our Creative power.

Because, at the moment, we have surrendered our power, and our strings, to them and their Dark agendas and their Dark manipulations completely. We may not have done so consciously, although, also, many people have, but what's required of us now is a conscious stand against them, which is why the Knowledge of them is so necessary.

Their manipulations attack us at every level of our consciousness and at every level of our existence, from our reality to our energy systems, from our physical senses to our DNA, and from our conscious awareness and our rational mind to our deeper consciousness, especially the subconscious and the imagination, both of which are vital Connections to, and with, our higher consciousness, our soul.

In other words, their malevolent agendas and manipulations are designed to target every aspect of us, not just singly, but also in combination, like a well-written symphony of attack, enslavement and manipulation.

The Strong Current of Opinion

A monograph dedicated to shedding the Light of Knowledge on the Darkness and its agendas would not be complete without a more detailed look at the manipulations, even though I have more than covered their agendas across the preceding series.

If we continue to switch off or shut out this Knowledge and the warning implicit in it we are giving tacit permission for the manipulations to continue, at least on a personal basis. The problem for us then is we are not just opting to remain in the Separated lower-dimensional state, we are also opting to exist in a state of discordance with our Sun, which puts us at odds with the very fabric of the canvass of this human Thought. No one, regardless of how strong they think they are, can last long in such a state.

On the other hand, paying attention will and must also require an active and conscious stand against the manipulations, which, for some, might seem like hard work, especially if, in doing so, we find ourselves going against the strong current of opinion and behaviour.

Know, then, that very soon, as fourth dimensionality takes a firmer hold of consciousness, and, as a result, consciousness starts to push back against the systems of control, those of us who are prepared to take such a stand will form the stronger current, and those who are not prepared to take a stand will, unfortunately, be swept away. This is not a threat, it is a warning.

Dark Manipulations

As you read about the Dark manipulations, don't despair. I will state this now, at the outset, before you read any further so that you can hold the Knowledge in the forefront of your mind as you read. There is a very effective antidote, a very effective way out for us all. I have already named it, but I will expand on it after I have covered the most powerful of their manipulations.

Satanic and Black Magic Rituals:

Although there are multiple agendas behind the prevalence of Satanic and black magic rituals, a primary aim of these is the generation of the Darkest energy, sending it through Gaia's ley lines, just as electricity sizzles along power lines. The people in the area touched by these ley lines then become like appliances plugged in to this Dark energy, and it directly affects their consciousness, which they, then, experience as dark thoughts and negative emotions.

Again, you can see the Truth of this in Nazi Germany because black magic rites and ritual sacrifice played no small part in generating both the vortex of evil and the war.

Sacrificing men, or spilling the blood of male victims, stirs up negative masculine energy which expresses itself through bullying, conflict, violent aggression, physical control and domination. If the Dark Priests or those who serve them want to generate war or conflict, this is the best way to do it.

Spilling the blood of female victims stirs up negative feminine energy which expresses itself through covert manipulation, underhandedness, criticism, undermining and eroding the power of the throne. If the Dark Priests want to pull down or weaken an edifice of power, like a government, this is the best way to do it.

Sacrificing children – the preferred option as far as victims are concerned – turns innocence into fear. And fear, as we now know, forms the very essence of their Devil's Playground. This means the ongoing sacrifice of children over millennia has formed, and continues to form, a vital foundation for their systems of control.

I personally know of one family who saved up for the holiday of a lifetime and took their two little girls to Disneyland. One of the little girls went missing and in their panic the parents left their other little girl with a kindly older couple who miraculously materialised and offered to look after her whilst the parents searched for their other daughter. Both little girls were never found.

I wish to god it wasn't so, and I hope to god those parents never read this monograph, but I know damn well those two little girls became sacrificial victims. And I also know something of the pain, terror and horror they would have experienced before their blood was spilled. Pain, terror and horror form a vital part of the ritual because these states cause hormones, especially adrenaline, to be secreted into the bloodstream of the victims, and the hormone-laden blood is then consumed.

The question is, if this is so common, and it is, then why aren't these incidents more widely publicised? Oh, but then people would stop bringing their children to Disneyland, and the fodder for their sacrificial rites would dry up, although Disneyland is anything but their sole source.

Hermetic Devices Dedicated to Set:

Hermetic devices, either in their negative configuration, usually back-to-front and/or upside down like the Nazi's Swastika, or consecrated to Set, are formed of many things, from buildings, like churches, temples, pyramids or skyscrapers, to statues, like obelisks, to landmarks.

They can be singular, like the Pentagon, St Paul's Cathedral in London, and the various dislocated obelisks in multiple cities around the world, or they can comprise multiple points, like the configuration of the pyramids in Egypt or the configuration of the Gothic churches in France. They can also be formed out of geometric grids and shapes, demarcated by blocks and avenues, or main thoroughfares in cities, and they can even be formed out of whole towns or cities.

When they are established, or set up, they are usually consecrated with magic ritual to render them operable, and once this is accomplished, the power of the Hermetic device will remain, or endure, until someone, or something, breaks up, or separates, the device.

Because they can be set up in cities and in whole countries or part of a country, they can cover wide geographical areas, and they are, then, widely effective and easy to conceal.

But they are easy to conceal anyway because of our penchant for taking things only at face value, and because we know nothing about these devices and their effects. So the Darkness has only to shape and manipulate a context, like the religious contexts they've Worked damned hard to orchestrate and establish, and, like a shroud that disguises the malevolent Truth, all we see is the bedazzlement of the costume, the illusional pretext.

When Hermetic devices are dedicated to Set, or his alter ego, Satan, or they're set up in their negative form, they affect any individual, group, cultural and collective consciousness residing in the area targeted by the device in such a way as to generate and cause descent and destruction, pulling, or anchoring, consciousness down into the heavy, dense quagmire of fear, Separation, and materiality.

As with black magic rites, these devices are powerful, and their effects can be likened to a strong current or rip, dragging consciousness along in the force of it, and against which, in our ignorance, we are hopelessly unable to contend. Just like a strong rip, the effort required to swim against the force is great indeed. But, of course, we can only try to counter the power and effects of these devices if we know about them, which we don't.

Snuffing Out the Ancient Wisdom:

I have already written extensively about the efforts of the Dark Priests to eradicate the Ancient Wisdom so I won't cover this again here. Suffice it to say, so powerful is the Wisdom, coupled with the vital fact that consciousness absorbs and responds to it like a dry sponge soaking up water, that genocide, murder, assassination, torture, crusades, execution, military and propaganda campaigns, and wars involving whole armies have, by necessity, been employed by the Dark Priests to counter it.

Like a surgeon cutting out a tumour, making damn sure he gets it all, have they excised the Ancient Wisdom from our human experience. So powerful is the Ancient Wisdom that this successful eradication can be likened to turning all the lights out, plunging us into a Darkness so complete it makes the dead of night appear relatively bright.

Snuffing Out Truth:

The Ancient Wisdom, Truth and Knowledge are all powerfully illuminating, although, like freshly ploughed soil, the Wisdom renders consciousness able to soak up and absorb the seeds of Truth and Knowledge. So all three, in their various and different forms, are powerful antidotes for the disease of our chronic ignorance and our existence in that same complete Darkness I just referred to.

Truth, in its many forms, covering a myriad of different aspects of our existence, has been snuffed out, like a flame blown out on a candle, and the strategies employed to do so involve outright lies, deceits, distortions, inversions, censorship, redaction, programming, misinformation, disinformation, sliced and diced half truths, etc.

And never more so than with our institutionalised religions and their religious texts. One of the reasons these texts are so powerful, so effective as tools of programming, and, therefore, so utterly entrenched in our collective psyche is the Truths they contain because, as with the Wisdom, consciousness absorbs Truth effortlessly and easily.

But at the same time, recognising those Truths in the distortions, and distinguishing the Truths from the lies and deceits contained in these texts has, without the Wisdom, become all but impossible.

Two other very effective strategies they've employed to deal with Truth have been the literalisation of symbolic Truths contained in myths, for example, and the patronising criticism, ridicule, and belittlement of labels like the CIA's 'conspiracy theorist'. Literalisation and accusations such as this close the mind and solidify consciousness, acting like condoms worn over an individual's ability to open his or her mind, allowing in the Truths that can start to break up the rigidity of set-in-stone mindsets and beliefs.

Snuffing Out Knowledge:

Knowledge is a particular mandate of this monograph because it is a vital aspect of Michael's sword.

Knowledge, as I wrote earlier, is the food of the soul, so with the demise of the Ancient Wisdom coupled with extinguished Truth, both of which render us wholly and soul-ly unable to absorb the Light of transcendent Knowledge, we are starving. The seeds of Knowledge are currently falling on the hard, unyielding ground of our consciousness, just as Yeheshua's famous parable tells us.

I am going to outline some of the more crucial aspects of Knowledge we've lost and been deprived of because, if we turn this Truth around and start to seek out this Knowledge and then develop and expand it, we will go a long way toward breaking up the bedrock of our chronic ignorance and, with it, our Hermetic blindness.

We can and will, then, begin the perhaps arduous Process of releasing ourselves from our perpetual enslavement. Please note, these are in no particular order:-

- Our True history: We have no Knowledge of our True history, so we do not and cannot Know who and what we really are. Nor do we and can we have any Knowledge of our True heritage. We are millions of years old, speaking the language of linear time, as is our DNA. And over the millions of years of our existence we have lived innumerable iterations, like individual incarnations, during which we have made some disastrous choices and fatal mistakes that we Know nothing about. So how, then, can we rectify those mistakes, or even stop ourselves from repeating them? We can't.
- Our DNA: We believe we have 2 strands, or layers, of DNA only, so we have no Knowledge of the other 10 layers, and this is, at least in part, responsible for holding them in a state of dormancy. Once again, how can we, then, Know the Truth of what we are and of what we're capable of? How can we, then, Work with all 12 layers of our DNA as we're supposed to? We can't, so a vital part of us is simply missing. We're like jigsaw puzzles with 90% of the pieces missing but erroneously believing we're complete. Needless to say, we're not capable, then, of seeing the whole, true picture of ourselves.
- Energetic links: And how, then, can we Know about the True reflection of our DNA, or ourselves, in the constellations that surround us? We Know nothing about the powerful and inherent energetic links with these constellations and the Truth that as these links are triggered by the Sun's movement through the Zodiac we have no choice but to Work with the energies in the corresponding layers of our DNA. And we do not then also Know that these energetic links and influences form the very foundation of the Processes that run through our lives like underground rivers.
- The value of feminine energy: We Know nothing of the True value and power of feminine energy because we have been taught that women are second-class citizens, and our religions teach us that the suppression of women is not just okay, it's necessary. So we also, then, have no idea of how vital the Sacred Feminine is for holding the human experience as a whole, and in its various sub-strata, like cultures, in Balance. And we also have no idea how vital feminine sexuality is as a means of maintaining that Balance, nor how powerful it is as a conduit for higher-dimensional energy.
- Consciousness: We have no Knowledge of consciousness, its multifaceted and multi-dimensional Nature and the very fundamental Nature of ourselves as consciousness. Which means we have no idea of who or what we really are. With our lack of Knowledge and the Separation of consciousness the Dark Priests have caused to be, we think we are the shallow characters of our incarnated identities, and we think these characters are all we are.
- The Universal Laws: Courtesy of our ignorance of consciousness we also have no Knowledge of the Laws of the Universe, each one of which we cannot ultimately violate, although we do try, whether consciously or unconsciously, with disastrous and highly-detrimental effects. But without Knowledge of these Laws we also, then, have no Knowledge of why things happen the way they do, and we have no idea of the profound consequences of our choices and actions.
- Archetypal energies: Unfortunately, we don't even fully understand ourselves as shallow character-identities because we Know nothing of Destiny, or Karma, or the True reasons and Purpose of our incarnations. We have no real sense of self, and the tools we could Work with to Know ourselves we also Know nothing about. The archetypal energies that, as souls, we choose to Work with in each life are energies that weave together to form the very essence of who we are in a lifetime and the very fabric of the reality we Create to facilitate the Purpose of our incarnation.

- The True Nature of reality: We have lost the Knowledge of the True Nature of reality, so we hopelessly misunderstand it. We use it as a means of self aggrandisement only, not realising that reality is a tool we are supposed to Work with to heal, grow, evolve, transcend.
- Not alone in the Universe: We think we are alone in the universe because we have lost the Knowledge that our human culture is merely one of many in our local galactic neighbourhood, and one of uncountable billions in the broader community of the Universe.
- Dimensionality: Not only have we lost the Knowledge of dimensions but, with this, we've also lost our ability to grasp the whole concept of them. So multi-dimensionality generally, and our own multi-dimensionality more specifically, has become as foreign a concept to us as the idea or notion that we have lived on other planets.

Dark Bargains:

As manipulations, Dark bargains would not be so effective or so damaging, and so long-lasting in their damage, too, if the ripple effects of consequence were limited only to those individuals making the bargains. Unfortunately, as is evidenced by our past history and our current political landscape and, indeed, our whole fall from grace, this is not the case.

But nor would the Dark bargains be so effective if we were not so easily impressed with, seduced and manipulated by the individuals entering into them. The Dark bargains would be rendered all but ineffective if we did not venerate these individuals and hand them our own power, and if we did not follow them like sheep.

We don't just surrender our power to these people, we also surrender our ability to think for ourselves, and, crucially, we surrender our discernment. We become like Oliver Twist², handing our empty bowls to these people, innately telling them please, sir, I want some more of what's on offer.

The ease with which we are whipped up, sometimes into a frenzy, by these people, is frightening. As we saw relatively recently in the mob attack in Washington, was it January 6, and as the people of Alexandria experienced when the mob tore down Alexandria's temples, its priesthoods, and its famous library, and as the Cathars experienced when Simon de Montfort's army rampaged through southern France, people are turned into violent mobs that resemble, in their behaviour, packs of rabid dogs. These mobs become a single entity, like a wild animal, as if its members have been lobotomised.

This dynamic has been given many names in our art, three of which are 'horde', 'legion' and, in *The Matrix Resurrections*¹, the 'swarm', the depiction of which is, tragically and shamefully, accurate.

When the Dark Priests seduce, lure, trick, entice, manipulate individuals into making the Dark bargains that are the mainstay of their control, those individuals may or may not benefit, finding themselves wealthy, famous and/or powerful. Ultimately, though, the Darkness always wins from such bargains. And often, they do not even have to bother keeping their end of the bargain. These individuals either lose their sanity or destroy themselves before the Darkness has to pay up.

If you are one of those who have struck a Dark bargain, then know this. They are playing you. They are using your own fear and your ignorance and your obsessional wants against you. What they are offering you is illusional, as substanceless as hot air, but the price you will have to pay will endure well beyond your life.

As men like Julius Caesar, Adolf Hitler and Vladimir Putin demonstrate, individuals willing to enter into Dark bargains become instruments of Darkness, the means of furthering the Dark agenda, and their power and the destruction they leave in their wake should never be underestimated.

Mechanisms of Manipulation:

I have referenced these throughout The Monograph Series and concentrated on them early in the first series especially (see Monograph Three), so I won't go into detail here. Nor will I list them all specifically because we're not stupid. If we take even a moment to stop and apply ourselves to seeing the Truth, we will recognise them for what they are. It's not hard to do so.

What I will do here is concentrate on the purposes and, therefore, the effects of these mechanisms, but, again, briefly, not in great detail. Once again, these effects are not in any particular order:-

- So much noise is generated by the mechanisms of manipulation that hearing, sensing, and connecting with the communications of our own consciousness has become all but impossible. How does our higher consciousness communicate with us? We no longer Know, and, what's worse, nor do we care, either, because all we seem to care about, speaking generally, is the noise.
- So much imagery do they generate that the subconscious is forced to Work overtime to clear it, and this is negating its other vital functions. The images of our sleeping dreams are a vital communication from our higher consciousness, but we neither Know this nor care, because the images we see in movies, on television, in computer games and on social media are so much more enticing and exciting.
- Courtesy of these mechanisms we've become like rabbits in headlights, immobilised, mesmerised, seeing only the bedazzlements offered by them, which means they are capturing focus almost completely, anaesthetising, hypnotising, beguiling.
- Such is the effectiveness of social media especially that we completely surrender our powers of discernment. We don't even bother thinking about whether the information we're bombarded with is true or false or misleading, we just soak it up, and this is facilitating the control through programming.
- Worse, the torrential flood of misinformation, disinformation, and imagery feeds us full to the brim with lies and deceits, numbing us and dumbing us down, perpetuating the zombie state.
- The mechanisms are being used to artificially generate emotions that don't just consume our focus, they also swamp, or override, our own emotions, rendering the language of emotion ineffective as a tool we're supposed to Work with.

- The mechanisms are also being used to artificially generate thoughts, mindsets, beliefs, attitudes, opinions, prejudices, again, at the cost of our own natural ones.
- And so they completely dictate perspective and, therefore, intent, aims, drives, motives, goals, pursuits, etc, all of which are killing the stories of Creation, swallowing up the power of Creation we hold within us.
- The mechanisms are performing the classic sleight of hand function, causing us to look at things and in specific directions so that we don't look at and see what is really going on.
- Also, significantly, these mechanisms keep us looking outwards, preventing us from going within and from being with ourselves.
- And, social media especially has become a perfect tool for abuse, bullying, discrimination and vitriol, without any accountability or consequence, since the inadequate but supposedly long arm of the law has yet to reach it.
- Social media has also become a perfect means of establishing social cults that, then, set trends that don't just dictate behaviours, they also control how we think and feel about ourselves.

I wasn't going to list all the effects of the mechanisms originally because I have already referenced them, but I realised seeing them all listed together, one after the other, really does highlight their dangerous effects, especially in combination.

The Plane of Operation

There is a very powerful difference between those of us of the Light and those of the Darkness, one that is well worth keeping at the forefront of your mind as we Move forward into our future, and as we, as humans, return to the Light.

The Darkness must operate on and in the physical plane whilst we of the Light can operate on the metaphysical plane. Which means they of the Darkness can only orchestrate whilst we of the Light can Create. The power of orchestration verses the power of Creation can be likened to a comparison between the breath of a sneeze and the winds of a mighty hurricane.

This is exactly why they have so ubiquitously implemented their mechanisms of manipulation, to prevent us reconnecting with the metaphysical plane and rediscovering the very great power of Creation, both of which we hold within us. These mechanisms keep us locked in where we are, as we are, bound and chained to the physical plane where they of the Darkness are able to maintain their power and control.

If we break free, as Neo broke free from the Matrix, and go beyond the physical plane to the metaphysical Truth of ourselves, they of the Darkness will be rendered unable to match us for power. They will have no control and no means of regaining control.

Masters of Our Domain

The antidote to the Darkness in all its forms and expressions, whether within us or outside of us, and with all its agendas and manipulations is something they absolutely greatly fear – the Light of the human soul – our own higher consciousness.

For all their intelligence, they have no redress against the power of our higher consciousness, no measure that effectively counters the Light of the human soul, once we Connect with it and bring it forth. So as we take our strings from their hands and place those strings back where they belong, in the hands of our own souls, the Dark Priests are rendered hopelessly and helplessly unable to pull us in any direction at all.

We become, then, the masters of our domain. They of the Darkness have locked our higher consciousness out of this Separated lower dimensional existence, but we hold the power within us to reverse this dynamic and lock them out of this, our human experience.

Michael's Famous Battle

To those of you who serve the Darkness, you obviously know the Darkness exists, so do you not, then, fear the Light and its powerful ability to banish Darkness? Because, if the one exists, then so, too, does the other.

Ah, but you thought the Darkness ruled here, so you thought you would cast your lot with the winning side. Well, you're about to find out the hard way you've foolishly chosen the wrong side.

Michael is already Working to put the Darkness in its place. Those of us who will consciously and actively participate in his famous battle have but to awaken the Truth, and awaken to the Truth, within us of the part we will and must play. When this occurs, the Darkness will not just find itself facing a single being, but, rather, a whole army of them.

All the Shenanigans

As for the Dark Priests, this, our current existence, is their reality, not ours. But we hold within us the power of Creation, and as we release that power to flow from within us out through the landscape of our reality, we will Create a new heaven on this earth, and there will not be a damn thing the Dark Priests can do to prevent it.

If God really existed, don't you think He would look upon us and not approve of all the shenanigans? For those of us of the Light, fourth dimensionality is a release, but for the Darkness and all who serve it, fourth dimensionality is a reckoning.

* Author's Note: I deliberately use capital letters to denote higher-dimensional concepts and to distinguish these from the common, lower-dimensional use and definition of the words.

1. The Matrix, 1999, Village Roadshow Pictures; Warner Bros. Pictures, and The Matrix Resurrections, 2021, Warner Bros. Pictures; Village Roadshow Pictures.
2. Oliver Twist, Charles Dickens, 1837-8.
