

Monograph Fifteen: The Face of Tyranny

We are unable to see beyond the curtain of illusion, so we think the tyranny we fought in WWII was defeated. We think we prevailed. But surely you understand by now the fallacy of such thinking. The tyranny behind the two big wars of last century is as strong as ever it was, and it is striking at us again, right now, in our time. Are we just to stand by, watch, and let this happen again? Or will we, this time, fight back and show this tyranny it has no power over us?

If we are to fight, we need to know and understand what that fight is and where to fight it, because if we fight this tyranny on its terms, we will lose. We must fight it on our terms, because if we do, it will lose. And it will lose us.

A Culture of Denial

In the aftermath of World War I (WWI), when Europe was in desperate need of healing and rebuilding, no one wanted to contemplate the thought of another war. In fact, the thought of another big war was utterly unthinkable. And so, they failed to consider it as a possibility. They couldn't, and as a consequence, they existed in denial.

And in the culture of denial that permeated Europe at this time, Hitler and his Nazis were able to rise to power and, quite literally, get away with mass murder, all whilst preparing for the war they knew they were going to start. They were given a massive head start because Europe was disarming at the same time Germany was arming.

As a lover of history, I have never been interested in war. No matter the period of time, the context, or the culture, I have never willingly studied it. And so, with respect to the two big wars of last century – WWI and WWII – I have wanted only to turn my face away. I have wanted not to know the details of those wars, nor to see the images of horror captured and preserved in our historical archives.

Personal Denial

I find that old footage deeply distressing to watch, not just because of the horror and trauma of war itself but because those old films capture the worst of what we, as humans, are able to do to each other, with and without the dark manipulations behind the scenes.

But I haven't been allowed to turn my face away from those wars, particularly WWII. As part of my Work* I have needed to see for myself what went on in that war. Now that you know where I exist, you will understand when I tell you I have brought into my reality documentary after documentary after documentary, as if the Universe has been throwing them at me, forcing me to pay attention. This dynamic has been relentless, too, and I have had to watch and absorb them all. Not just the images, either, but the information provided by experts who have studied those wars.

And no wonder, because in watching those documentaries, I have been able to piece together a lot of information, related and seemingly-unrelated, like assembling pieces of a jigsaw puzzle, and I can see beyond the physicality of those wars. I could, and still can, see the face of the tyranny behind them and the events occurring between them.

We think we defeated that tyranny at the end of WWII. We think we put that tyranny in its place, and we think we prevailed. But we are wrong. The tyranny behind those wars is as strong as ever it was, stronger, in fact, because it used WWI and WWII to set in place even greater systems of control and manipulation than those established in the millennia preceding the wars.

Right now, I, and many others, see the same tyranny at work again in our global political and social landscape. The truth is, it never stopped working. It cannot.

The Tyranny of Darkness

The same tyranny behind the rise of the Nazis is not just preparing to strike at us again. It is striking at us again, right now, just as it did under the Nazi regime. En masse. Why? Because the forces at play here now necessitate it, from the perspective of the Darkness*.

With the removal of Free Will* and the Cosmic Stroke of Midnight* (see Monograph Ten), they of the Darkness are in the process of slowly but very surely losing control of human consciousness, and they are panicking. They are, in fact, desperately trying to hold on to the reins of (illusional) power and control.

So they are preparing to throw caution and pretence to the fore winds, once again, as they did under the Nazi regime. They are preparing to show us their true face once again.

They think this, our human existence, is their playground, and they will not willingly surrender their control of it, even though this human experience is not of their Creation* and, so, does not belong to them at all. They did not Create this human existence, they stole it, with an awful lot of assistance from us.

So, are we to walk into the devastation of another cataclysmic world war and the horror of genocide and physical enslavement with our eyes closed?

Such a culture of denial and apathy does not serve us, just as it did not serve Europe after WWI. Such a culture of denial serves only the agenda of a highly, transcendently-intelligent Darkness. Such a culture of denial plays right into their hands.

Control of the Human Experience

Surely, now, after reading the previous monographs, you can see for yourself that anyone who wants to control this whole thing – the human experience – must control human consciousness to, then, control reality, and vice versa. With the one you control the other, and with the other, you control the one in an eternally-perpetuating cycle, like an eternally-repeating loop in the coding of a computer program (the Matrix³).

And, now that we know how intrinsic thought/Thought* and Process* are to consciousness, does it not make sense that to control human consciousness those who want control of us need to, first of all, control human thought, and collective and individual Processes?

Specifically, those who want control need to trap thought and stagnate Process.

Obviously, 'tis not easily accomplished, to trap thought and stagnate Process on such a scale as it is being achieved – collectively and globally. But those who are doing this have Worked to do so for many, many centuries. Millennia, in fact.

And they have had a lot of practice at it. Contrary to extremely-erroneous popular opinion, there have been many iterations of the human experience. I, and others, have spoken about the Cycle of Recalibration* elsewhere^{1, 2} – an aeons-old cycle to which humanity is subject as a matter of its fundamental collective nature.

The Sleight of Hand Tactic

Orchestrating and establishing a culture of chronic ignorance, which I wrote about in the first series, is essential in any Dark agenda targeting consciousness, because in such a culture, fear survives and thrives. And when humans exist in fear, fear itself becomes a very handy tool of manipulation and control. Nothing Separates* consciousness and nothing fuels the ego like empowered fear.

Then, with a culture of ignorance and Perpetual Separation thus established, the mechanisms of manipulation and mind control in place, now, keep human consciousness anaesthetised, hypnotised, beguiled and bedazzled, and immobilised, so that humanity is focussed on those things and in a way that serves the agenda of Darkness.

This, we refer to as the 'sleight of hand' in reference to the old magician's trick of distracting the audience with one hand whilst he does something with his other hand that he doesn't want the audience to see.

We also refer to this anaesthetised, ignorant, distracted state of being as the Zombie* state. 'Sleight of hand' tactics work very successfully on those in the Zombie state. The Zombie has no heartbeat of his own, because he is technically dead, so he moves to the beat of an artificial one, just as humanity is now doing. To control the Zombie you have only to control the artificial heartbeat – the very pulse of this human experience. The Darkness is controlling the artificial heartbeat masterfully . . . or it has been.

Puppets Whose Strings are Being Pulled by an Unseen Master

The other analogy I've used to describe this state of existence is the puppet who wrests control of his strings from his creator, his master⁴, with the intention of controlling his own story. But in wresting his strings from his master he has unwittingly placed them in the hands of a malevolent Darkness that cares not one whit about his well being. The puppet is not in control. He only thinks he is.

With the controls in place, now, humans have become like puppets whose strings are being pulled in whichever direction those in control see fit, without us noticing we are being pulled, and without us knowing we have become puppet slaves.

As I said in the last series, we have become slaves wholly incapable of fighting back or breaking free because we do not know we are slaves. Our freedom is pure illusion.

The Primary Means of Manipulation

But the Darkness is, at this time in our human existence, confronting a very big problem, one it is fully cognisant of . . . well, obsessed with, actually. And well it should be. 'Tis the removal of Free Will.

Although this might seem like a scary proposition to many people, for us, the removal of Free Will paves the way for our rescue, resurrection and release. For the Darkness, the opposite is true. Thus does the removal of Free Will mean freedom for us but bondage for the Darkness.

No being, god, human, devil or otherwise, can make us do anything at all, and no being can do anything to us without our permission. We can, however, be manipulated into using our Free Will such that we do give our tacit albeit unconscious or even conscious permission. Put simply, it's choice that is being manipulated, and choice is the primary means of manipulation.

This is perhaps the most compelling reason why the Darkness must foster a culture of chronic ignorance. They cannot have us making informed, Knowledgeable choices – choices that arise from us thinking for ourselves, because they will, pretty quickly, lose control of our strings. Then they will be thoroughly deprived of their ability to pull us anywhere, in any direction, any way they see fit.

A Very Big Problem for the Darkness

The Darkness is fear. This is its very essence, and this is so for all those who serve it, too. And have we not established, now, that if there is fear in us, as consciousness, we will manifest it in order to see, acknowledge and confront it? Is this not an inherent aspect of Process?

The Darkness is consciousness, too, just as we are. The Darkness is in the Universal Mind of God just as we are. Which means the fundamental characteristics of Consciousness apply to the Darkness every bit as much as they apply to us. And it means the Universal Laws*, like the Law of Karma, to which we are all subject also apply to the Darkness. No one exists outside these Laws because it is not possible to exist outside of them. The laws of men, yes, but not the Laws of the Universal Consciousness.

With the removal of Free Will, human consciousness is shifting, and higher Consciousness* is beginning to stir, to awaken. Higher Consciousness is pushing back. The human soul, as beautiful and powerful as it is, is beginning to have expression in this human experience. And as this Process continues, we will rediscover the Truth that we Create our own realities. We will rediscover the power of Creation we all hold within us.

This is a Process* that, once begun, as it has now done, is taking on a life of its own. It is gathering momentum, and it is, in fact, unstoppable. Well does the Darkness know this. They of the Darkness can feel it. Heck, they can see it, and they are, as I said, panicking.

And do you know what is the cause of their panic? They cannot Create, they can only manifest their fear. If they lose control of us, they lose their ability to control the fabric of reality in this realm, and they will start to manifest their greatly-empowered fears in their own realities. Given the nature, depth, and intensity of their fears, the lacerations of their souls, and their karmic load on top of karmic load on top of karmic load, I would not be in their shoes for anything.

But this is what they are trying to stave off by using our Creative ability against us to serve them. We power their illusional reality. The Matrix has that absolutely right³.

Extreme Measures of Control

So what do they do about this? Their manipulations and their systems of control will be rendered more and more ineffective. From their perspective, the time has come for more overt, far less subtle, systems of control.

Even more significantly, they think the time has come to generate more powerful circumstances in our human reality that capture focus, generate extreme fears, dictate mindset and belief, and force humans to continue to Create* a reality that reinforces the curtain of illusion and the Separation of consciousness. Like war. War is, in fact, their ‘go to’ strategy – their ultimate ‘sleight of hand’ tactic.

In other words, as energetic forces of Light* shift and stir human consciousness, the Darkness will fight back with energetic forces of its own. Cosmic warfare is ramping up, and, therefore, so, too, is the tug of war between the Light and the Darkness for control of human consciousness. And humans are, as usual, caught fair smack in the middle.

Creating 'Storms' in the Collective Human Reality

We know, now, what happens when we Create 'storms' in our realities that are supposed to be opportunities for us to see, confront and disempower our fears and shadows. These ‘storms’ are potentially powerful enough to cause us to sink, just like Peter when he tried to emulate ‘Jesus’ and walk on water, because they hold our deepest, darkest fears. The problem for us is they hijack and consume our focus, dictate our perspective, and control our thoughts, mindsets, choices and actions because, in our ignorance, we are failing to understand the Purpose* for them in our reality.

But, hopefully, we also know, now, what occurs for us in failing to understand the source and nature of these ‘storms’ in the landscape of our reality. We don’t see beyond the physicality of them to the deeper truth underlying them, so we focus on the circumstances of them, miss the point, and empower our shadows instead of disempowering them.

What’s worse is the fact that by doing this we lock our realities in place courtesy of the Observer Effect*. And since it is the ‘storms’ themselves trapping our focus, we are effectively locking the ‘storms’ in place instead of releasing and dissolving them.

So what occurs, then, when very massive 'storms' are deliberately generated in our collective reality that capture and trap the focus of millions of us, on the same thing, in the same way?

The Storm of War

In Monograph Ten, I spoke about war and, in particular, two aspects of it that are used to great effect as part of the deeper, darker agendas:

- In war, humans are focussed on a very specific thing, or, rather, focussed in a very specific way, in a very specific direction, on a very specific enemy, and so things occur that humans simply do not see because they are looking the other way. Focus is entirely captured and dictated by the enemy and the war itself.
- War provides a context that facilitates normally-unacceptable actions and behaviours, concepts and ideas, government decrees and laws becoming justifiable and, therefore, acceptable. In war, things are implemented or introduced without accountability, without questioning or opposition from the populace, that would, under different conditions, be entirely unacceptable. And once implemented, they stay because they become part of the fabric of our existence and we forget they weren't always there. We no longer notice them, and so we don't think to question or oppose them. In accepting them we choose to operate with and out of them.

Overt war, where two, or more, opposing sides fight each other, is simply one facilitating context. That is, overt war is a context that facilitates the implementation of controls ostensibly to deal with the supposed threat, whatever form that takes in the context. The so-called 'War on Terror' was one facilitating context in our recent past, but surely it is, by now, obvious that the 'war' against the highly-contagious Covid virus and the consequent global pandemic was another facilitating context.

Police States

Every country, state and territory had its own response to the threat of the virus, but I rather think my own experience is a supremely good example of what truly occurred during the pandemic.

Sweeping aside the context, if we just look at the raw facts, in my home city of Melbourne we had our fundamental freedoms stripped away from us, and, what's worse in my opinion, we allowed it. Like lambs to the slaughter we allowed Melbourne to become a ghost town, completely shut down in the most severe series of lock downs.

While Europe was reporting over a hundred thousand new cases of coronavirus a day, we in Melbourne, during one of our severe lock downs, were reporting around two new cases per day. Yet, we were in such a full lock down that it crippled Victoria's (our state's) economy and isolated us from the rest of the country here in Australia.

We became a police state. Literally, not figuratively. Businesses on the brink of closure were opening up despite the 'rules' and being fined $10,000. Road blocks were set up to restrict travel and to question anyone daring to go outside the restrictions of 5km from their residence with no good or valid reason. Police were monitoring social media (proving to me they can monitor social media, so why don't they in other circumstances??), arresting anyone who dared speak out against the draconian measures in place to deal with the virus. We were allowed one hour of exercise per day, and one person per household was allowed one trip to the shops per day. We became prisoners in our own homes.

How is this any different from Nazi Germany or communist China?

Lambs to the Slaughter

Oh but, I hear you say! The draconian measures were in place to save lives. No, actually, they were in place to cause us to crave our freedom, and our fundamental rights, so desperately that we willingly submitted to the true purpose of the Covid agenda – its vaccine.

How easily we become lambs to the slaughter. How easy it was for our government(s) to implement measures that stripped us of our fundamental rights and freedoms. All the Darkness need do is employ one of its more powerful tools of manipulation and control – the media. What the media says, goes. How the media portrays and depicts a thing is how it is. We don't look beyond it; we don't think beyond it; we don't go beyond it.

We need to confront the deeper and sinister agendas underpinning that virus and its vaccine. I won't outline what they are doing with the Covid vaccine because many others have already done so⁸ (I have provided one valuable reference but there are many more that are easily accessible with a bit of digging). What I will say here is the Darkness is using the vaccine to force us more deeply and more permanently into the Zombie state thereby rendering us incapable of transforming and transcending our consciousness.

Put simply, consciousness is, and always was, the target.

A Well-honed, Highly-successful Strategy

We are lulled into an apathetic compliance with these stringent restrictions because of the context and the supposed justification for whatever is deemed necessary to deal with that context.

This is the well-honed, highly-successful strategy they, of the Darkness, have been implementing for centuries. Create the context, change the laws, implement emergency powers, spoon feed the masses misinformation and disinformation, drip feed the people constant and consistent propaganda at every level and from every direction, fire the little two-word mantra bullets at us with repeated rapidity or rapid repetition. Goebbel's legacy.

Am I accusing our Victorian government of working in cooperation with an agenda of Darkness? Yes, absolutely I am.

Platforms, Publishers or Propaganda Tools

When YouTube removes a professionally-prepared journalistic piece documenting two doctors speaking up about the manipulation of the numbers of deaths from Covid-19, specifically, the pressure on doctors to put the virus on death certificates, regardless of the true cause of death, both the piece and the removal of it should sound warning bells, or set off alarms.

Social media platforms are so called courtesy of the legislation introduced to render them not accountable for any content appearing on them. This legislation sets them apart from publishers, who are fully accountable for what they publish. Yet, the social media platforms are, now, practicing rigid censorship. So what are they – platforms or publishers? Because they can't have it both ways. Or can they?

What the social media platforms have become, in Truth, are a powerful tool of propaganda, facilitating control and manipulation, and, of course, the 'sleight of hand' tactic. We need to ask ourselves some vital questions where social media is concerned. In practicing such rigidly-controlled censorship, who is doing the censoring? Upon what basis? And what is being censored?

What are they up to?

Even as it first broke I recognised the 'sleight of hand' dynamic in the Covid pandemic. And I started asking the questions early in 2020. What are they up to? What are we not seeing? Why are they orchestrating this context?

I guessed at the time, because I didn't have enough information to know for certain, that they were preparing for war. Only, I thought they were preparing for overt war. I thought they were preparing for physical war.

Pandemics happen to be very handy for that. Our focus is fully captured because potentially-fatal viruses are very scary things. In response to pandemics our economies are crippled, and that, in itself, captures our attention. Our governments become fully caught up in the balancing act required to deal with the virus on the one hand and keep our economies ticking over on the other.

Now, in mid-2023, I know I was right. The virus was a 'sleight of hand' tactic to distract us from their war. But I was also wrong. They weren't preparing for war, they were launching it. And nor is their war overt. It's covert.

The Tyrannies of Russia, China and North Korea

With respect to our geopolitical landscape, we are not heading for war, we are already at war. Courtesy of the advances in our weaponry, war has a different face in this, our modern era. Even the most insane, over-bloated egos recognise the potential for annihilation and extinction if humanity engages in nuclear war. So war in our era is conducted on economic and financial fronts, involving social attacks and destabilisation via social media, trade embargoes and sanctions, corporate takeovers, manipulations of stock exchanges and local currencies, etc.

China is the big bully in the neighbourhood, certainly in our Asia-Pacific neighbourhood, and China is invading and taking control of this neighbourhood, with, I believe, a very definite focus on Australia and New Zealand whose natural resources it covets. We, in the west, are at war with two communist countries, Russia and China. They know we're at war, even if we don't, although, obviously, the Ukrainian people know it.

I'm certain Winston Churchill would agree with me if he was here to see for himself that what is transpiring in our global political landscape is covert war. He would recognise the same truth he saw in Nazi Germany pre-war. China, especially, is economically and militarily preparing for overt war whilst conducting a covert one.

And is it really just a coincidence that the Covid virus originated in China?

Comparing Tyrannical Patterns of Behaviour

The patterns of Russia's and China's respective behaviours are identical to those we can see when we sweep our vision back over our history. So, for example, as with Caesar and Pompey – those other all-conquering despots – one looks to the west, the other looks to the east.

Russia and China are not planning to take control of the whole world. They are taking control of the world. They are carving it up between them. Or, rather, they believe they are. Like opponents strategically moving pieces on a chess board to set up checkmate, so, too, are these communist states manoeuvring and manipulating to set themselves up to win a game not everyone knows they're playing.

And, of course, if we look closely, all the same patterns we saw in Nazi Germany are there. The two communist states, or three if we count North Korea, in tandem, are exhibiting exactly the same behaviours, with massive, choreographed Hollywood-style rallies, racial genocide, murder and assassination, the building of concentration camps, imprisonment, torture, mind control, stringent control of the media, the expulsion of foreign journalists, the disappearances of those who dare to speak out.

Even the uniforms of the Chinese military remind me of the uniforms of the Nazis – uniforms that are supposed to symbolise the ruthless power of a military authority but are, in truth, nothing more than pretty costumes in the Nazi/China drama.

Primary Tools of the Darkness: Over-bloated Egos

Taking control of the world, or at least carving out vast empires, is a common theme of the Darkness simply because their primary tool is always the over-bloated ego – men, usually, although women are susceptible, too, who crave power the way a vampire thirsts for blood.

And so we see the same old pattern of wounded, dysfunctional, power-hungry egos at the helm of these communist states – egos that crave power at all and any cost. As *The Matrix: Reloaded*³ puts it so aptly, what does any man with power want? More power.

These egos are wholly and souly predictable. Just like Hitler and the flock of Nazi vultures he gathered around him, all the Darkness has to do is give these egos a taste of power, and the over-bloated egos at the helm of these political states are whipped up into a power frenzy. They are no different to drug addicts given just a taste of heroin . . .

And, they are like toys the Darkness only has to wind up and then let loose, just like Hitler. There is, however, nothing toy-like or playful about the brutality these egos mete out. Again, like Hitler, they are incredibly dangerous because, among other things, they are utterly devoid of compassion, and they care not one whit about human suffering.

The Other Side of Tyranny's Face

But what if even these are a 'sleight of hand' tactic, designed to draw our focus and attention so that we believe they are the ones who pose the greatest threat to us? And, again, what if these, too, are the means of orchestrating a context that facilitates all sorts of measures we wouldn't normally find acceptable? What if they, too, are victims of a deeper, hidden agenda – an agenda of the looming threat of overt war, division and conflict.

What if these are merely one side of the face of the tyranny – the side of its face it wants us to see?

What if the real threat is hiding itself in the shadows, making sure it doesn't register as a blip on our radar? Except that, courtesy of brave individuals whose eyes are open, the tyranny is registering, and, for many of us, it's registering as more than a blip.

That Famous Epic Biblical Battle

If we understand the real tyranny then we will understand why this tyranny is not preparing for war, it is waging its war. In fact, and ironically, WWI and WWII were the preparation.

If we open our eyes and see what is transpiring in this, our world, and what is being done to us, then we will understand that the true war is not occurring between different sides physically, it is occurring between opposing sides metaphysically.

It is a battle between forces of Light and forces of Darkness for control of our consciousness, our reality, our human existence. So shouldn't we shake ourselves out of our apathy and take an active part? And, yes, if you're thinking of the biblical Battle of Armageddon, then you're right to do so, because this is it.

Remember, though, that the institutionalised religious texts have an unfortunate tendency to literalise, thereby distorting at best but inverting at worst the real symbolic meaning of those ancient mythologies. We need to be very careful we don't misconstrue and misunderstand those meanings and the Battle itself. To do so could render us in danger of inadvertently finding ourselves on the wrong side.

Masquerading

I will not go to great, or, for that matter, any lengths, to outline the true face of the tyranny that has us enslaved, because others have done a far better job than I could even begin to. These people have comprehensively and extensively researched every subtle and not-so-subtle nuance, or contour, of the tyranny's face, and every aspect of its Dark agenda. As a consequence, they are able to open our eyes to a multitude of truths. I especially recommend the three I've referenced^{9, 10, 11}.

Suffice it for me to say, here, that one of the many facets, or forms, or manifestations, of the Battle is Knowledge versus ignorance. This is, in fact, key, as I stated earlier, because these two form the premise of the state of being that will ultimately determine victory or defeat for us, individually and collectively.

So we need to Know the Darkness is masquerading itself in, and with, organisations that are supposed to have been established for our protection and betterment – NATO, NASA, the IMF, the WHO, the CDC, the DOD, the CIA, FBI and NSA, MI5 & MI6, the UN, news corporations, pharmaceutical companies, social media, our governments. The list is far longer, too, of course, but these are the most well known.

Was it, for example, just a coincidence that two very powerful earthquakes hit Turkey after Turkey made it very clear to NATO that it would not become a member? And what is SEGIS? This is a word, obviously an acronym, I woke up with at the time those earthquakes hit, and it resounded in my mind for two days until I looked up what it could be. And when I looked it up I knew they have, somehow, made a weapon capable of generating significant seismic events in targeted regions. Covert war.

And, if we bypass the propaganda machine of the world's media and dig a little more deeply ourselves into the war between Russia and Ukraine, is NATO 'poking the Russian bear', manipulating, forcing Russia's hand? Covert war.

These are the kinds of questions we need to be asking, because these agencies and agents of Darkness are guarding the portal from hell back into heaven – Knowledge. Specifically, they are guarding against us becoming Knowledgeable about many things.

Manoeuvring Pieces on a Chess Board

If the Darkness is orchestrating an overt war, with China, North Korea and Russia against the rest of us, than are we going to be tricked and lured as we always are when it comes to war? Or will we, this time, make a stand and refuse to participate?

Oh, but, the United Nations (UN) will not allow it. Right? After all, this is exactly what the UN was established for, wasn't it? To stop these kinds of travesties?

So how successfully has the UN dealt with the various African dictators we've seen over the last decades? How effectively did the UN protect the people of Rwanda, for example? Or prevent the absolute decimation of Syria and the mass graves they're digging over there? Or deal with the use of chemical weapons in that country supplied by Russia? Or step in and stop the war between Armenia and Azerbaijan that resulted in the deaths of thousands of innocents?

Did the UN prevent the deaths of thousands upon thousands of Muslim men and the systematic rape of thousands upon thousands of Muslim women on Milosevic's watch? Did the UN effectively resolve the Rohingya refugee/humanitarian crisis in Myanmar? Is the UN protecting the Ukrainian people now?

Yes, a most effective organisation it is . . . not.

Using Free Will Against Us

Human consciousness is not evolved enough, especially now, in the modern era, to authentically exercise Free Will. But this does not change the fact that we were given the gift (or the curse) of Free Will.

What all this demonstrates, though, is the fact that Free Will is a fallacy. There is, in truth, no such thing. If we exercise our Free Will and ignore, dishonour, and negate the inner guidance of our higher-dimensional Self – the highest facet of our consciousness – then we become those same puppets whose strings are placed in the hands of the Darkness that currently controls the Separated human reality.

Were we exercising our Free Will in Melbourne during our strict lock downs? Ah no, not at all. The rest of Australia stood by and watched, sending us messages of encouragement, just like the presidents and politicians in the US who continue to offer their 'prayers and condolences' to all those people who are still losing loved ones in the gun massacres over there. Useless, meaningless rhetoric. Completely ineffective.

Those people whose eyes have been opened and who have taken the risk to speak about what they see in the world (only some of whom I reference in the first series and in this monograph), have invariably brought upon themselves the dubious label of 'conspiracy theorist', which effectively gives others the perfect excuse to either ignore or, worse, revile them. But these people have brought our attention to the agenda of Darkness.

I can hear and sense many of you asking the same vital questions. What do we do with this knowledge? How can we change things? How can we fight back? How do we stop it?

Sliced, Diced, Censored, Scripted News Programs . . . or Programming

From personal experience, I know we are never going to stop focussing on the 'storms' they're generating whilst ever we allow ourselves to be spoon fed by manipulated journalism. If we don't stop watching their sliced, diced, censored, scripted news programs, we will absolutely struggle to shift our focus. The news networks are programming human consciousness all-too-successfully and all-too-easily.

Likewise, social media. Social media has become a cancer in modern society – a cancer that is affecting far too many of us.

How do we deal with an electrical appliance that has become dangerous? We simply disconnect it, and we make damn sure it's not reconnected until it's repaired. Well, social media is toxic electricity, or energy, and it is damaging us as 'appliances'. There is no repair for it because its conception, design, and intent are all purely malevolent. But there is a repair for us if we disconnect from social media. We will not be disconnected from each other, and we will keep functioning.

Ever is it so that humans ignore our warnings

Why would the Guardians allow the horrors of those two world wars? They did so because they could not, back there, circumvent both choice itself and its consequences.

Furthermore, there was a need for humanity to see just how bad it can get in this state of Perpetual Separation we exist in and as, and there was also a need for humanity to see the true face of the tyranny that binds us.

Now the Guardians see it happening again and so, this time, we are warning humanity.

It is, however, an age-old phenomenon that humanity ignores such warnings. Just ask Noah or the prophetess, Cassandra, who warned the Trojans of approaching war. So, too, will it be again that many humans will ignore these warnings.

But this time, there is a difference. Not everyone will ignore our warnings. As such, it is not to everyone that I speak. It is to those who will not ignore our warnings that I speak.

Changing Our Frame of Reference

If we fight the tyranny on its terms, we will lose. On the Separated physical plane of existence, we are powerless and, as such, we are no match for them. On this physical plane, the tyranny is in control. If we fight it its way, if we pit ourselves against it on this plane of existence, we will plunge humanity into a war so horrific there will be no winners. Really. With the technological advances in weaponry from the end of WWII to now, we will decimate this world and ourselves with it.

The Work I outlined in the previous monographs of both series, particularly that of dancing with internal shadows and breaking the hold of the ego, will strip from within us everything that holds and anchors us to the physical plane of existence. With each shadow stripped and dissolved, we will set free our vision, our focus, our perspective.

And if we do it enough, we will change our frame of reference from physicality to metaphysicality. It makes sense, does it not? If we do the Work to look beyond the curtain of illusion, we'll eventually do it naturally and effortlessly. And when we do, we will change our point of existence.

Taking the Fight to the Metaphysical Plane

My fantasy novella, *The Silver Wolf*⁵, illustrates this dynamic. The vampire in my story symbolises different levels of those things we battle on the physical plane. On an individual level, he symbolises the ego, but on a higher level, he symbolises the physical manifestations of the tyranny of Darkness and their tools, the over-bloated egos.

On the physical plane, the confrontation between my heroine, Lliandra, and the vampire is incredibly dangerous for her, but on the metaphysical plane, where she exists, he is the one in supreme danger, as he finds out to his detriment. What she's doing in this scene is setting free the power of Creation that she holds within her, and which he cannot counter. And what she's Creating is the experience of her Self.

In Vladimir Putin, I see a scared little boy, and try as I might, I can't see him as anything else. I don't know what his background is but I see in him someone who is trapped in it, unable to break free. For all his ruthlessness and supposed power, I see someone who is powerless, and who is at the mercy of his powerlessness.

But, ultimately, this is a Truth that directly applies to the tyranny of Darkness. This Darkness, and those who serve it, are at the mercy of extreme fears that render them utterly powerless. This is an unequivocal Truth we need to Know.

The Battle of the Lower and Higher Planes

You can see the same principle of physicality and metaphysicality illustrated in *The Matrix: Revolutions*⁶, the third movie in the trilogy. Neo and the Oracle could not fight Smith (the agent, or sentinel, of the illusional reality – fear) on his terms or on his plane of existence. On his plane of existence, they were no match for him, and there was simply no way Neo could have fought all of them, the Smiths.

On the higher plane of existence, however, beyond the physicality of the confrontation between Neo and Smith, the reversal of power is absolute. There, Smith did not possess the power, the knowledge or the wherewithal to fight Neo and the Oracle.

The depiction of Light blowing apart the Smiths in a chain reaction is also profoundly significant because this does actually occur. How? Through the Unified Field of Pure Abstract Potential⁷ to which we are all connected, plugged into. And through entanglement.

Whether writing about this dynamic or depicting it in a movie, the inherent difficulty of conveying the truth of what occurs is directly due to the fact that the dynamic itself is beyond the five physical senses. How do you depict setting free the Light of higher Consciousness in a way that conveys it to those who have no experience of it and who are, therefore, caught in physicality, seeing only the physical? I think they did a damn good job of it in the third Matrix movie.

The New Exodus

Within ourselves, within our own individual consciousnesses, we can undo all of it – the wound of Perpetual Separation, the abject and chronic ignorance, the addictive interaction with reality, the satiation of want that consumes focus and locks reality in place, the hold of the ego.

Do the Work to dance with, dissolve and release your shadows. Recognise and honour the Process running like an underground current through your life. Allow reality to take its rightful place as a tool of Process. Recognise want for what it is, and allow your Process to heal you of your addiction to reality as illusion. Set free your own higher consciousness so that you become infused by the most powerful, higher-dimensional intelligence.

Rediscover the rhythm of your own heart and relearn how to move to its magnificent beat. Reconnect with the story of your own Destiny – the Purpose for your life.

We hold the power within us to reverse everything they've done to us. And when we do we will dissolve the culture of denial and apathy that has us in its grip. Awaken to the truths I and others are telling you. Know. Allow Knowledge to open your eyes. See beyond the curtain of illusory physicality.

Know that reality is, in truth, only ever an extension of our thoughts. If enough of us do this, we will Create the current that will direct the flow of a different experience and a different human reality.

Ironically, we think we're in control of our realities now, but if we do this Work, we will truly become masters of our domains, and the Darkness will have no power over us. This is the new exodus from slavery into freedom. This is the new Promised Land. This is an authentically higher-dimensional existence.

A Call to Arms

So, yes, we are being called to arms. Are we to stand by and allow the tyranny of Darkness to repeat the horror of those two world wars? Absolutely not.

Don't you think if I could wave a magic wand to transform and transcend all of us I would? Don't you know that I would transform/transcend all of us in such a way as to avoid the pain I've been through, if I could?

But I cannot. I have the power to trigger transformation, but I do not have the power to transform you. You, and you alone, hold that power within you. It is that power I tap into now. It is that power I touch, now, and stir into life. Give it free reign within you. Trust its guidance. It will take you exactly where you need to go – into and through yourselves.

We have a golden opportunity to reclaim human consciousness for the Light.

* Author's Note: I deliberately use capital letters to denote higher-dimensional concepts and to distinguish these from the common, lower-dimensional use and definition of the words.
